WIFE SHOT BY HUSBAND DIES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Pearl Stelzriede Thought to Be Recovering When Relapse Came.

WOUNDED FIVE TIMES

Elmer Stelzriede in Jealous Rage Fired on Her at Home.

IN JAIL, ADMITS GUILT

His Guitar Playing Attracted Girl and He Won Despite Mother.

Mrs. Pearl Stelzriede, the 18-year-old wife who was shot four times by her husband, Elmer Stelzriede, in their bedroom at the home of Mrs. Stelzriede's mother, 2806 Chouteau avenue, as she was about to retire the night of Feb. 16, died early Wednesday morning at the City Hospital. Although she was severely wounded, the young woman was thought to be on the road to recovery until late Tuesday afternoon, when she became delirious. Mrs. Stelzriede then sank quickly. Her death was due to peritonitis caused by one of the bullets which lodged in the abdomen and could not be extracted.

Only once in her delirium did the young woman refer to the shooting. She cried to the physician attending her, "Look out, doctor, or he will get you too."

In her fancy she passed through all the scenes of her childhood, speaking of steamboat rides and excursions into the country. Only the hospital attendants were with Mrs. Stelzriede when she died. A brother of the woman's husband called at the hospital late Tuesday but did not see Mrs. Stelzriede.

Jealous Husband in Jail.

Elmer Stelzriede has been held at the holdover pending the result of his wife's injuries. He has admitted the deed, saying that he was actuated by his insane jealousy for his wife.

The tragedy took place as Mrs. Stelzriede was about to retire. She was disrobed when her husband entered the room. He went to a drawer and secured a revolver. Flourishing it around his head, he ordered his wife to promise not to make a contemplated visit to her sister, Mrs. Lillie Brocksmith, saying that he was tired of her leaving home as much as she did.

Stelzriede then shot the young woman as she was lying on the bed. He fired four shots and all of them took effect, one making two wounds. Mrs. Nannie Neill, mother of the wife, rushed into the room and took the pistol from Stelzriede. She struck him over the head several times as he was kneeling at the side of the bed begging his wife to kiss him. This was the scene as the police, attracted by the shots, entered.

Mrs. Stelzriede was taken at once to the City Hospital and her husband to Soulard Street Police Station. Later he was taken to the hospital, where his wife identified him as her assailant, and said that she would prosecute him when she recovered.

Mrs. Stelzriede, then Miss Pearl Neill, married Stelzriede two years ago when she was 16 years old and he 20. Stelzriede is an expert player on the guitar and the young girl became infatuated with him. Her mother says that she objected to the match, both account of her daughter's age and because of her objections to Stelzriede. Stelzriede and his wife had many quarrels.

OKLAHOMA TOWN SWEPT BY FLAMES

Twenty Buildings in Business Section of Hitchcock Are Destroyed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAWTON, O. T., Feb. 21.—Twenty business houses in the town of Hitchcock were destroyed by fire early today, entailing a loss of over $100,000. The fire originated in the Wood mercantile house from a defective flue. It spread rapidly, rushed by a brisk north wind, and could not be checked. Very few business houses are left in the town.

Among the buildings destroyed were the First National Bank of Hitchcock, the Vanguard newspaper office, Central telephone office, four general mercantile houses, two hardware stores, two hotels, one drug store, two saloons, a barber shop, restaurant, millinery store, blacksmith shop and three residences.

Wife Charges Abuse.

Mrs. Ida A. Eble of De Hodiamont has sued her husband, George J. Eble, for divorce in Clayton. She charges that he abused her when she was ill and unable to accompany him to balls conducted by the Royal Crusaders and the Rosedale Social Club, organizations of which he was a member. They were married Jan. 21, 1903, and have two children, Adaline, aged 2, and Franklin, 10 months.

Sager Wants Ollie Roberts.

Circuit Attorney Sager said Wednesday that after the Police Board was through questioning Ollie Roberts he could take her before the grand jury to tell her stories of police graft.

C. H. TURNER CRITICALLY ILL, IS IMPROVING

Hope Now Expressed for St. Louisan Ill at Waldorf-Astoria.

CHANGE FOR THE BETTER

Daughter Reaches Bedside With Other Relatives Summoned From St. Louis.

CONSULTATION IS HELD

Famous Specialist Called in and Patient Rallies During Afternoon.

Charles H. Turner, whose physician believed him to be dying Wednesday morning at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, where he has been sick three weeks, rallied in the afternoon and there is now hope of his safely passing the present crisis.

Mrs. Duncan Joy of St. Louis, daughter of Mr. Turner, who, with other St. Louis relatives, were called to the bedside by telegraph, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter at the Waldorf;

"I hurried to New York on receiving a telegram announcing the dangerous illness of my father and arrived but a few hours ago. Dr. Janeway, who has just held a consultation with Dr. Gibbons, who has been attending father throughout his illness, gives us hope. He says that the condition of my father is considerably improved this afternoon and that he hopes to see still further improvement by night."

Mr. Turner is the former president of the Suburban Street Railway System of St. Louis. He was taken ill several weeks ago, but improved steadily, and no thought of his sickness having a fatal termination was entertained until Monday, when he had a severe hemorrhage of the stomach and became critically ill. Since then he grew rapidly worse, and Wednesday was unconscious. Dr. Gibbons, who has been attending Mr. Turner, has summoned Dr. Janeway, a celebrated specialist, who attended the late Charles T. Yerkes at the hotel. Dr. Gibbons practically gave up all hope, but Dr. Janeway told a Post-Dispatch reporter in New York that he thinks the patient has a fighting chance.

Mr. Turner's daughter, Mrs. Joy of St. Louis, arrived shortly after noon and is now at her father's bedside. Dr. Gibbons has not left the patient today. At 1 o'clock this afternoon he was joined by Dr. Janeway and they held a consultation.

Friends of the dying man called at the Waldorf this afternoon to inquire about his condition, and were informed that no cards could be sent up nor any information be given out by any one except Manager Barse. When Mr. Barse was asked for, the callers were informed that he was with the physicians in Mr. Turner's bedchamber and could not be seen.

DAUGHTER WEDS, MOTHER ENDS LIFE

"Find Me Under the Bridge If You Want Me," She Wrote.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAWTON, O. T., Feb. 21.—A special dispatch received this morning from Decatur, Tex., says that Mrs. Peter Hobson of near that place threw herself into the river Monday night and was drowned. She was disappointed because of the marriage of her daughter to a young man she disliked, and when her daughter returned to her mother's home Monday afternoon she found a note reading as follows:

"You'll find me under the bridge if you want me."

Her body was discovered that night.

GEN. GROSVENOR LOSES NOMINATION

Representative Defeated by Albert Douglas—Twenty Years in Congress.

LANCASTER, O., Feb. 21.—Albert Douglas was today nominated for Congress over Gen. Grosvenor on first ballot by 78 to 20.

The man who defeated Gen. Grosvenor is 38 years old and a lawyer at Chillicothe. He graduated at Kenyon College in 1872, and at the Harvard Law School in 1874. He was a presidential elector-at-large and president of the Ohio electoral college in 1896 and was defeated for the Republican nomination for Governor in 1899. He is a fine orator and has dominated the politics of Ross County for years.

Mr. Grosvenor has been in Congress for 20 years.

Two Allege Desertion.

In Circuit Court Wednesday Fannie Price filed suit for divorce from Harvey A. Price, alleging desertion. They were married Oct. 22, 1902, and separated Dec. 9, 1904. William A. Smith alleges desertion as his ground for divorce from Elizabeth R. Smith. They were married Jan. 7, 1903, and separated May 30, 1904.

SALMON BANK MANAGER CASEY FACES TRIAL

Official of Defunct Clinton Institution Answers Forgery Charge at Butler.

NINE MAIN WITNESSES

Prominent Missourians Allege He Forged Their Names to Notes for $31,000.

MOTION TO QUASH MADE

Defense Says Grand Jury's Session Was Not Secret Because Hadley Was There.

From a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

BUTLER, Mo., Feb. 21.—When the case of Thomas M. Casey, accused of forging notes to the amount of $150,000 while manager of the now defunct Salmon & Salmon Bank of Clinton, was called for trial here before Circuit Judge Denton today, Attorney W. W. Graves for the defendant filed a motion to quash the indictment on technical grounds.

In support of his plea Attorney Graves argued that the proceedings of the Henry County grand jury, which returned a total of 19 indictments against Casey, were not conducted in secret, as the jury without warrant of law permitted the attendance of the Attorney-General and his assistant and a stenographer, who was not, he held, a sworn officer of the court.

Casey Not Perturbed.

Casey entered the court room at 10 a. m., accompanied by his attorneys and personal friends from Clinton. He has recovered completely from his recent illness. He did not appear nervous or worried. The court room was crowded but the prisoner paid no attention to the spectators, who eyed him curiously.

He is represented by John H. Lucas of Kansas City and ex-Circuit Judge Walter Graves of Butler. Former Attorney-General Crow, Assistant Attorney-General Kennish and Prosecuting Attorney John Hinkle of Henry County represent the State of Missouri, the prosecutor.

Indictments against Casey which are pending in Benton, Polk, Pettis and Bollinger counties, whence they were transferred on his application for a change of venue, are the direct result of the disastrous collapse in June, 1905, of the famous Salmon & Salmon Bank of Clinton.

Indictments were returned by the Henry County grand jury in September, 1905, against Maj. Harvey W. Salmon, his brother, Dr. G. Y. Salmon, Thomas M. Casey and Frank M. Salmon, son of Dr. Salmon, a bookkeeper.

Maj. Salmon and his brother are charged in six true bills with receiving deposits after they knew the bank to be insolvent.

Long List of Indictments.

Four indictments against Frank Salmon contain the same charge.

Thomas M. Casey, manager of the bank since 1896, is accused of forgery, of receiving money when the bank was insolvent, of falsifying the books of the bank, of rifling safe deposit boxes and of selling or hypothecating trust securities. The offenses charged against Casey are set forth in 13 indictments.

All of the defendants, with the exception of Dr. Salmon, who is 78 years of age and quite feeble, obtained a change of venue after asserting that they could not get a fair trial in Henry County.

Notes Aggregate $31,044.

The principal witnesses named on the indictments against Casey are: Dr. S. C. Rubey, secretary of the State Board of Health, whose name Casey is alleged to have forged on a note for $2500; L. A. Spangler, who held a forged note for $4000; A. B. Coe, forged note for $3000; S. W. Paul, forged note for $4500; John T. Paul, forged note for $5000; R. W. Covington, forged note for $4000; W. R. Carr, forged note for $2500; J. A. Dunn, forged note for $17.79, and F. B. Richardson, forged note for $3765. Dr. Rubey was a schoolmate of Casey.

The Salmon Bank closed its doors June 20, 1905, after a visit of one of the examiners of Secretary of State Swanger. The closing caused a great sensation in Clinton and the surrounding country, where the bank was looked on as a financial Gibraltar. The deposits were about $700,000. Investigation of the bank's affairs led to charges that Casey, the manager, had forged large numbers of notes and hypothecated them with banks in Kansas City and St. Louis as collateral for loans. These charges are now trial.

QUARREL OVER PADLOCK.

Henry B. Anderson Fined for Kicking Oscar Zeittler.

Henry B. Anderson of 811 North Twelfth street was fined $10 by Judge O'Halloran in the Dayton Street Police Court Wednesday for disturbing the peace of Oscar Zeittler, a locksmith, of 705 South Broadway. Harry Clark, who has a coal yard at 811 North Twelfth street, contracted with Zeittler to take a locked padlock from the handle of a lantern for 5 cents. After he had taken it off Anderson claimed it. There was an argument and Zeittler says Anderson kicked him in the stomach. Zeittler retaliated with a chunk of coal and then ran. Anderson pursued. Special Officer Smyth jumped from a car and pursued both of them. Zeittler ran through a shoe store. Smyth followed him through. The proprietor fainted. Smyth caught Zeittler in the back yard and also arrested Anderson in front of the store, and took both to the lockup.

They were tried on cross charges Wednesday. Anderson was fined and Zeittler was discharged.

BAGGAGE EMPLOYES WHO ADMIT THEFT OF TRUNKS; WIFE AND FIANCEE, COUSINS, ACCUSED WITH THEM

MRS. MARY FLANDERS. ELZO GREEN.

ETHEL CLICK. LYMAN FLANDERS.

SUSPECT WOMEN OF MAIL THEFTS

Cousins From Rural Community Held With Husband and Fiancee.

TRAVELERS WERE ROBBED

Dummy Trunk Used in Trapping Union Station Baggage Employes.

Postofficer Inspector W. T. Sullivan went to the Four Colrts Wednesday to investigate the recent disappearance of several mail bags from Union Station. The arrest of Lyman Flanders and his wife, Mary, of 3105 Laclede avenue; Elzo Green of 2343 Atlantic street, and Ethel Click of 2940 Pine street, and their confession to the theft of trunks from the Union Station baggage room, ha dsuggested to him that they might know something about the disappearance of the mail pouches.

The effects of the prisoners were looked through and a mil pouch lock was found in one of the trunks recovered by Green. He was questioned by Assistant Chief of Detectives Keely and Mr. Sullivan. He said the lock was in the trunk when it came into his possession. He admitted having stolen the trunk, but denied that he had ever stolen a mail pouch.

The arrest of the two men and two young women has cleared up several mysterious thefts that have bothered railroad detectives for many months. The arrests also brought out a sad story of the failure of two farmers' daughters to find the success in the city that they had hoped for.

Complaints a Year Old.

The prisoners are: Lyman Flanders and his wife, Mary, of 3105 Laclede avenue; Elzo Green of 2343 Atlantic street and Ethel Click of 2940 Pine street.

Ethel Click and Mary Flanders are cousins and were raised on adjoining farms near Salem, Mo., 85 miles west of St. Louis, on the Frisco road. They were 18 years old when they came to St. Louis two years ago to seek their fortune. Ethel was employed in a West End family and Mary in a candy factory.

A year ago they met Green and Flanders. Green was 24 years old and had come to St. Louis from the vicinity of Alton. Flanders was 21 and came from Equality, Ill. The young men, also seeking their fortune, were employed in the baggage room at Union Station. Flanders and Mary Click were married. Green was smitten with Ethel Click's charms, but his mother objected to his marriage and he did not wed her.

Switched the Checks.

The method of theft seemed fairly safe. Through baggage unloaded in St. Louis to be transferred was selected by the thieves, and the checks were changed. In this way a trunk which should have gone on west or east was held here, and the thief who had changed the checks, retaining the duplicate, had no difficulty in getting the trunk by sending an expressman for it.

The capture was due to an accident. A trunk on which the check had been changed was through a mistake put on an outbound train, bearing a check showing its destination was St. Louis. The trunk belonged to James H. Whitecotton, formerly Speaker of the State House of Representatives, and was checked to Paris, Mo.

The trunk was found at St. Charles, Mo., after Mr. Whitecotton had reported its loss, and it was returned to St. Louis. Here the substitution of checks was noticed, and the check was put on a decoy trunk which was watched.

When an expressman called with the duplicate check he got the decoy trunk and was followed to the Flanders home. There Mrs. Flanders was arrested, and her husband was afterwards taken into custody.

SPRAGUE, FATHER, BEGINS LIFE ANEW

Founder of Delicatessen Company to Buy Restaurant He Opened.

Following Death of Sons and Failure, He Gave Home for Debts.

At the age of 76 years, bereft of his sons, almost crushed by the failure of the business he founded and into which he put the best that he had for 44 years, J. R. Sprague, left penniless, is bravely taking up anew the struggle for a livelihood for himself and his aged wife.

His son-in-law, Dr. W. S. Barker, has purchased from a committee of the creditors of the Sprague Delicatessen Co., which was found, after the death of Charles Sprague, to be involved for over $200,000, the fixtures of the restaurant at 124 Olive street, and if the sale is approved by the creditors at their meeting Saturday, Mr. Sprague will conduct the restaurant in an attempt to provide for himself and his wife.

This restaurant was opened by Mr. Sprague 18 years ago and the fixtures which have now been purchased for him were made with his own hands.

Mr. Sprague first went into the restaurant business at 716 North Broadway in 1888. He started with three or four tables and a capital of $15. Thomas Maloney, now in business at Union Market, was his assistant. Later he took his sons, Walter and Charles, into the business and they opened one place after another, finally incorporating as the Sprague Delicatessen Co., which was operating five large places at the time of the death of Charles Sprague.

Always Lived Economically.

During all the years the father drew from the business only what his wife and himself needed, leaving the rest in the business.

He thinks the business began to fail after the illness and death of his son, Walter, who was found to be indebted to the company. He says Charles was extravagant and, although his salary was increased from $3000 to $4000 five years ago, he continued to overdraw his salary. He thinks that if Charles had taken his advice the business would have prospered.

Mr. Sprague's wife is one of the creditors. When she sold her home at Twelfth and North Market streets for $8500 she put the money into the business.

Mr. Sprague says he is going to give up the home they have occupied at 5882A Vernon avenue and he and his wife will make their home with their daughter and son-in-law at 3853 Delmar boulevard.

"I have nothing left but my good health," he said Wednesday, "but I believe I am still capable of winning a living for my wife and myself in the community in which I have labored so long. All that I ask is that those who have been my friends in the past will still be my friends."

RECORDS INDICATE WINTER IS OVER

Temperature Not Below 26 Degrees Above Zero After Feb. 26.

FORECAST IS FAIR, MILD

Cool Period Often Comes March 15, but Not Below Freezing.

THE FORECAST.

Fair Wednesday night and Thursday, with moderate temperature. Variable winds, becoming southerly. Minimum temperature Wednesday night 36 degrees.

Unless all signs fail winter in St. Louis is practically over. Weather bureau statistics say so. In the 28 years during which official records have been kept in St. Louis the lowest temperature of the winter has never occurred after Feb. 20. After that date there has been an average rise with only occasional cool days about the middle of March.

February of last year was the coldest in the history of the bureau, the average temperature for the month being 23.2 degrees above zero. Yet in that record-breaking February the thermometer never registered below 26 degrees after Feb. 20 and reached 61 degrees on the last day of the month.

The average temperature for the present month up to date has been 6½ degrees higher than for February, 1905, and for three hours Tuesday afternoon the temperature was 55 degrees. These figures indicate that the average temperature for the month will be higher than the February normal average, which is 34 degrees.

Past Winter Normal.

Temperatures in the last ten days of February, 1905, were 4 degrees above the normal, despite the fact that the month was the coldest on record in St. Louis. If the comparative figures for this February and last are maintained the average for the present month should be about 40 degrees.

Though the present winter has been called mild, figures of the Weather Bureau show that it has been almost exactly normal for St. Louis.

December, January and February are the months officially called "winter." The average St. Louis winter temperature is 34 degrees. The average for the present winter up to date is 33.9. In 1905 it was 33.5 degrees and in 1890 the highest recorded average was established, 43 degrees.

There was a cool period last year between March 16 and March 23, but the thermometer did not register freezing temperature during that period.

Official figures bear out the predictions of amateur prophets who said that winter was over last Saturday when they saw snow falling while the wind was from the south.

Drops Dead on Street.

Mrs. William Lorenz, 60 years old, dropped dead Wednesday noon at Broadway and Cherokee street. She was with her daughter and was on her way uptown from her home at 33.9 South Seventh street. The body was taken to the Morgue. Mrs. Lorenz was the wife of a carpenter.

AVENGING INSULT TO WIFE, HUSBAND SHOOTS TWO MEN

Edward Reilley, City Employe, Breaks Up Card Game With Fusillade of Pistol Shots at George Dailey, One Bullet Hitting Dailey and Gus Olsen.

WOMAN SEIZES PISTOL TO SAVE HER FRIEND

Reilley Runs Away After Shooting, but Is Caught in Street by Former Policeman Antram Who Was Dismissed Friday—Nobody Is Fatally Wounded.

Resenting an insult to his wife, Edward Reilley, an employe of the City Street Department, shot two men in a room on the third floor of 9 North Tenth street Wednesday afternoon. One of the bullets passed through the right side of the neck of Gus Olsen, then under his jawbone and out through his mouth. Another struck a button on the coat of George Dailey, and glancing upward made a slight wound on Dailey's left cheek. A third bullet passed through the shoulder of the coat of John Olsen, a brother of Gus Olsen, but did not touch the flesh.

All of the bullets were aimed at Dailey. The Olsens were innocent bystanders.

Dailey's wound was so slight that he was not sent to City Hospital. Lizzie Larsen, a friend of Dailey, and Dollie Olsen were in the room when the shooting occurred.

A fancied slight to Mrs. Reilley two weeks ago, followed by an offensive remark when Reilley and Dailey met Wednesday, caused the shooting.

Card Game Interrupted.

Reilley and the Olsen brothers were playing cards in the rear room of two occupied by Gus Olsen. Lizzie Larsen is a tenant on the floor below. According to Miss Larsen, Reilley drew his revolver as soon as Dailey entered the room where the card game was in progress. He did not shoot at once, but asked Dailey if it was true that he had made a slighting remark about Mrs. Reilley.

Dailey replied that he wouldn't take back anything he might have said.

Then Reilley opened fire. Lizzie Larsen attempted to wrest the revolver from him. In her effort to protect Dailey two of the bullets went wild, one of them wounding Olsen.

After firing three shots Reilley ran from the room to a rear porch. As he was going down the steps he was met by Alfred F. Jacobs, collector for a real estate firm, whose office is on the ground floor of the building.

"What's the matter?" asked Jacobs.

"I don't know, but I think somebody's shot," said Reilley.

As he was running down the alley toward Market street Reilley was intercepted by former Policeman Antram, who was dropped from the force at last Friday's Police Board meeting for borrowing money from a saloon keeper. Antram turned Reilley over to a policeman.

Trouble Over a Dinner.

Lizzie Larsen said to a Post-Dispatch reporter just after the shooting:

"Reilley thought Dailey had slighted his wife, Rose Reilley. Two weeks ago Dailey came here to the house and asked me to go out to dinner with him. Rose Reilley was in the room, but I do not think Dailey saw her. Reilley became angry because Dailey did not invite Rose to go to dinner with us. This caused a quarrel and harsh things were said.

"Reilley heard that Dailey had said something about Rose and he asked him about it today. He didn't like Dailey's answer and he started to shoot."

Reilley, Dailey, Lizzie Larsen and Dollie Olsen are prisoners at Four Courts. Police are also looking for Rose Reilley who, it is said, has not been at her home since Tuesday night.

Gus Olsen is at the City Hospital.

VAST THRONG AT M'CALL FUNERAL

Hundreds Unable to Enter Church at Obsequies of Insurance President.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The funeral of John A. McCall, late president of the New York Life Insurance Co., was held today at the Roman Catholic Church of the Blessed Sacrament.

The street in front of the church was filled for half a block with hundreds of persons who could not get into the edifice.

FOUR COURTS CRUMBLING.

Assistant Prosecutor Struck by Falling Plaster.

While Assistant Circuit Attorney Johnson was seated at his desk in the ante-room of the grand jury room at Four Courts Wednesday a patch of plastering nearly two feet square fell from the ceiling and struck his back.

He was leaning forward at the time or his head would have been hit. He afterwards complained of severe pains, but remained on duty.

HOCH HANGS FRIDAY; LAST HOPE IS GONE

Board of Pardons Will Not Interfere in Favor of Chicago Bluebeard.

COLLAPSES AT THE NEWS

Short-Lived Defiance Soon Followed by Complete Prostration and Hysterics.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Johann Hoch has lost the last battle in the remarkable fight he has waged against death on the gallows. He must hang Friday. The Board of Pardons in Springfield today recommended to Gov. Deneen that Hoch's appeal for mercy be refused.

Since he was convicted of the murder of his wife, Chicago's modern Bluebeard, as he has been dubbed owing to the number of wife murders charged against him, has conducted with remarkable nerve, a struggle against the fate a jury awarded him.

Reprieved by the Governor at the very hour he was first to have stepped on the gallows, he obtained a hearing before the Supreme Court, was denied a retrial, fought and lost a demand for a rehearing, and as a last report, had his case taken before Gov. Deneen, who referred it to the Board of Pardons.

The case was practically re-opened and all the evidence for the prosecution and defense heard, with the result that the Board decided the sentence of death must b execute.

"All right, all right, all right," said Hoch when told in the County Jail that he must hang.

"It's all right," he continued, "if the Pardon Board has so decided, so don't bother me any more. I will not be hanged, just the same, for God is on my side and will protect me.

"I'm not guilty of murder and I will live to leave this cell a free man. All my resources are not yet exhausted.

"Jehann Hoch never will be hanged."

Half an hour after Hoch declared he was satisfied with the decision of the Pardon Boards, he collapsed like a wet towel and is now in a hysterical condition.

The Board of Pardons in deciding against Hoch, makes a lengthy statement, in which they review the evidence of Dr. Zeit and Mrs. Amelia Fischer Hoch and come to the conclusion that there was nothing in this evidence to justify overturning the judgment of the lower court, sustained by the judgment of the Supreme Court, as Dr. Zeit testified that he did not know whether deceased had died from arsenical poisoning or not, and that the presence of Bright's disease would not affect a death from arsenical poisoning.

BISCUIT COMPANY SUED.

Creditors Want Columbia Company Declared Bankrupt.

The Manchester Milling Co., the Fischer Flour Co. and the Eggers Milling Co. Wednesday petitioned the United States District Court to declare the Columbia Biscuit Co. bankrupt. The petitioners allege that the concern, against which they make claims aggregating $1985, committed an act of bankruptcy Feb. 20, when it admitted in writing that it was unable to pay its debts and acknowledged its willingness to be adjudged bankrupt.

The claims presented by the three petitioners are alleged to represent bills for 850 barrels of flour supplied by them.

The Columbia Biscuit Co. was organized several years ago by former officials and employes of establishments absorbed by the National Biscuit Co. There has been bitter rivalry between the so-called trust and the Columbia concern. The Columbia Biscuit Co. has a large and valuable plant at Fourteenth and Papin streets.

PATRICK MAY CONFRONT HIS LAWYER TODAY

Jerome Wants Attorney House to Testify to Alleged Confession.

TAKEN FROM SING SING

Rice's Condemned Slayer Leaves Death House for Court Room.

TEXANS ON THE STAND

Jordan Says It's Against His Religion to "Treat" a Policeman.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Albert T. Patrick has again been brought from the death house in Sing Sing and today he may be in court to confront his former lawyer, Fred House. Patrick is fighting for a new trial on the plea that newly discovered evidence will show that Charles Jones has confessed that he lied when he accused Patrick of causing him to kill William Marsh Rice. The District Attorney hopes to have Lawyer House testify that the story told on the witness stand by Jones was identical with that told him by Jones and Patrick when they first employed him to defend them. House asserted his rights as a lawyer and refused to testify when the case was first on trial, and it is believed he will continue to do so, even though Patrick may request him to testify.

But there is no let-up in the interesting testimony of the Texas men who have been brought here to testify that Jones told them he lied when he accused Patrick. And they are "lickerin'-up" quite a bit, too.

Joseph Jordan, the lame veteran of a coal car collision, explained away a lot of unpleasant things by telling about his cousin, having the same name and being lame like him and exactly the same age. This cousin, Jordan stated, was the Jordan who had been sent to prison and who had been crippled by a bullet from a warden's gun while trying to break jail. Jordan has his opinion of District Attorney Jerome, who insisted on asking him personal questions on the cross-examination.

"Jerome a Tough Eel."

"That there Jerome," he said today, "I regard as a tough eel.'

Jordan used to be a fisherman and he talks in the vernacular of the craft. It developed that Mr. Jerome had brought here some Texans of his own, who are expected to contradict the witnesses for the defense.

Jordan was recalled by Mr. Jerome when today's session was resumed. Jerome had him repeat the conversation he had with Jones when he says Jones told him he had lied at Patrick's trial. When the conversation had been repeated Mr. Jerome called in a well-dressed Westerner.

"Do you know this man?" asked Mr. Jerome.

"Oh, yes," said Jordan in the tone of one welcoming an old friend. "That's George Ellis. He used to be chief of police out in Texas."

"How long have you know him?"

"Ever since he has been running for office—that's about 28 years, I guess. He is Chief of Police of Houston now."

Then Ellis stepped out and John S. Fram, a policeman of Houston, and T. F. Lavett, a constable of Texas, came in. Jordan knew both of them, he said. He also knew N. B. Fuller, another Texas policeman, who walked up to the rail. It was learned that Mr. Jerome had introduced these men for the purpose of showing that Jordan was an ex-convict. When Fuller came in Jerome put the question:

"Do you know this man?"

"Know Fuller!" exclaimed Jordan. "Why, sir, I know him mighty well. He is a fine man. I'm proud to know him."

Jordan had some tattoo marks, and Jordan, the convict, was said to have been so marked.

Q. Now, about this cousin of yours—the other Joseph Jordan—was he your age? A. Well, he was born a month after me. He was named for me.

Q. Did not you say yesterday you were named for him? A. I was mistaken. I don't want to make no mistakes. Mistakes don't go in court.

Both Tattooed Alike.

Q. Was he tattooed like you, with a cross on the right arm and a woman's head and the initials "J. J." on the left arm? A. Yes, sir; he was. He was tattooed at the same time by a man named Joe Bland and he put the same marks on both of us—exactly the same marks. It was a funny circumstance.

A. He was just my size and build.

Q. Yes, I agree with you, it was funny. Now, what size was this cousin of yours who had the same name? Was he born in the same place?

Jerome here read from the records of the Texas State Prison telling of the arrival of Joseph Jordan, convicted of horse stealing, his imprisonment and discharge. Then he asked the witness to read.

Q. Does that refresh your memory? A. No.

Q. And you were never in prison for horse stealing? A. Never, sir. You can't say that because I look like this here cousin of mine that I was ever in prison for horse stealing.

Q. Did you ever ask the prison authorities about your cousin's jail record? A. No. I don't think it was my business. I think this here crime business is a private affair.

Q. Do you regard murder as a private business? A. Well, murder is all right if it is committed the right way. See here, we don't monkey with other people's private affairs. If you or any other Yankee came down there and asked me about a man's private business I'd tell you to pass along.

Q. Did you ever hear of Robert Lee being locked up? A. Well there have been several Robert E. Lees down our way in the South.

Q. I mean the Robert Lee who came here with you as a witness? A. Well, he was locked up the day we left Texas—just for drinking a little.

Q. Was Fayette Lee locked up, too? A. I think he was, for drinking, same as you might be; nothing serious.

Q. Didn't you talk with George Dudley about this case last summer some time—In August or September or July? A. Look here, Judge, you are switching the cases on me. Keep cases square and I'll give you a marker for every deal. Bear that in mind. I talked with Dudley.

Q. Did you tell him that you had been in prison and also had been accused of holding up a man? A. No, sir, I never did. If, sir, he says I did he lies by the watch! Sometimes a man lies for a few dollars mighty readily. I talked with Dudley one night when I was abuying licker for him—which I might say is against my religion—buying licker for policemen with the money I earnt a-wading round in water catching fish.

Q. Is there any person living in Texas who knows you and knew your cousin, Joseph Jordan? A. I don't know of any. My relatives in Brazos County would if they are alive.

Recorder Interferes.

Mr. Jerome put the question a dozen times in a dozen ways. Jordan did not answer directly, and finally the Recorder took a hand, insisting on a direct reply.

"Well," said Jordan, "there ain't nobody besides myself that I know to be living that knew my cousin."

Q. What do you get for coming here? A. Nothing but my railroad fare and my boarding expenses. I remember somebody told me I would get my wages while I was away from home, if I demanded them, but I can't recall who said that.

Q. Isn't your memory good on most subjects? A. Well, I don't need no grape nuts to refresh it.

Mr. Olcott re-examined Jordan.

Q. Were you ever guilty of assaulting a police officer? A. Well, they didn't prove it.

Q. Were you guilty? A. I was not.

Q. Have you any bullet wounds of any sort on your body? A. No; no wounds of any sort.

The witness detailed all that he remembered of the cousin who so closely resembled him.

"He looked mightily like me," said Jordan. "I must acknowledge that—excepting that he had coal black hair and eyes." Jordan has gray eyes and brown hair.

Q. When did you hear of his death? A. Four years ago. A nigger came up and told me about it. "Boss," the nigger said, "your cousing got killed on the railroad day before yesterday." I did not pay no attention to him. You know how unreliable a nigger is.

Q. Outside of being arrested a few times for drinking and once on the charge of attacking a policeman, for which you were discharged, have you ever been accused of any crime? A. Never, sir. There ain't no blemishes on my character as big as this diamond in my cravat that can be found anywhere.

Q. Did you ever steal a gelding? A. What's a gelding? Do you mean a horse? You better call things by their right name. No, I never stole no horse.

Q. Are you temperate in your habits? A. Well, in the last 10 years I ain't missed anything. Before that I was temperate as most fellows. I take a dram when I want it.

Mr. Jerome then re-examined the witness.

Q. Can you write anything except your name? A. Well, I can, but it would take an expert to pronounce it.

The District Attorney then caused Jordan to write his name and several other words on a sheet of paper. The witness showed how well he could write.

Toothless, but Can Write.

"I'm doing the best I can," explained the Texan, "when you fellers consider that I ain't got a tooth in my head."

T. F. Jett was called to the stand. He wore the regulation blue shirt, but the rest of the uniform was missing. He did not have on his diamond stud.

Replying to the District Attorney, the witness said he was a locksmith, living in Houston. His affidavit was read. It stated that Jones had talked to him several times about the Rice murder. Jones, according to the affidavit, told Jett that he was frightened and hounded into laying the death upon Patrick, when in reality neither he (Jones) nor Patrick had anything to do with the death of Rice.

Q. Jones told you Rice died of natural causes? A. He did. He said he was scared and browbeaten into charging Patrick with the killing of Rice in order to save himself from the electric chair.

Mr. Jerome asked the witness to describe his recent movements. Jett said that last year he was in Galveston, Fort Worth and Houston, Tex., and in Old Mexico, but he was unable to give the approximate dates of his movements or the time he spent in each place. He could not tell, for instance, whether he spent three weeks or six in one place.

"Being a drinking man," explained Jett, "I did not take much account of time. I stopped in every town. I did not keep cases on the dates."

Q. Were you ever convicted of any felony? A. Yes. In 1894 I was convicted of passing a forged check for $20. I got two years in prison and served 22 months in Rusk, Tex.

Q. Did you ever go to Big Anna Kelly's in Houston? A. Ever meet Jordan there? A. Yes. Her name is Caigany. They call her Big Annie. I've met Jordan frequently at her house. He used to be there nearly every night. It was a drinking place.

Q. Did you ever see Fayette Lee there? A. Yes.

Q. Where is he now? A. Since I came here I heard he was in Jail back in Texas for burglary.

Q. Who told you he was in Jail? A. I can't remember.

Q. Wasn't Fayette Lee one of those who were to come here to testify? A. Yes.

Q. How many times have you been arrested and convicted for fighting? A. I can't remember. I don't know how many times—probably eight or ten times.

Q. Can't you remember how many times you were convicted of fighting? A. No; it didn't make any impression on my mind. It was just a fine of $13.20 every time I went up. That's all I remember.

Q. You remember about being convicted of passing a forged check? A. You bet; I got two years. I wasn't guilty, either.

Q. Didn't you plead guilty? A. But I didn't know it was forged when I passed it.

Q. Didn't you ever talk to Jones about the Rice will? A. No; he just talked about the death of Rice and the murder case. He didn't mention the will.

Mr. Olcott then examined the witness.

Q. Did you ever meet Jones at Big Annie's saloon? A. No; I saw him in other saloons.

WIFE OF CAPT. PEUGNET, FROM WHOM HE ASKS DIVORCE, IN SPIDER SHE DROVE

MYSTERY IN BODY FOUND ON STREET

Chicago Police Can't Identify Dead Man With Bullet in Skull.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—The body of a man, apparently about 45 years of age, was found today in the gutter at the corner of Twenty-first street and Calumet avenue, in the heart of one of the fashionable residence districts on the south side of the city.

There was a bullethole above the right ear and a cheap revolver lay near the corpse, but the police are unable yet to state whether it is a case of murder or of suicide.

The only clews to the identity of the man are the initials "A. F." stamped in the sweatband of a hat found near him. The hat bears the name of "B. K. & Co., Milwaukee." There was a bullethole in the hat, but the police were unable to fit the hat on the head in such a manner as to bring the perforation directly over the bullet wound. The hat was also very small for the man.

It is the opinion of the police that the man may have been slain by footpads and his body brought from a distance. He was well dressed and had every appearance of being a prosperous business man.

DES MOINES, Io., Feb. 21.—Senator Warren Garst today introduced a measure in the upper house prohibiting the Sunday theater in Iowa. The measure carries with a fine of $50 and applies to all places of amusement open on Sunday.

MRS. PEUGNET AWAITS HER DAY IN COURT

Will Make No Reply to Her Husband's Divorce Suit Yet.

THEY SEPARATED FEB. 7

Capt. Peugnet Sent Her Effects to Her Parents in Kansas City.

CLOSED HOME TO HER

Reported Displeased by Her Entertainment of Stage Folk at Their Home.

Mrs. Alexina Puegnet, who is at the home of her father in Kansas City, told a reporter for the Post-Dispatch Wednesday that she would not defend the divorce suit which is the sequel to the romantic marriage of the pretty stenographer and Capt. Ernest Puegnet, rich, socially prominent and more than twice her age.

Mrs. Puegnet was 27 when she was married to Capt. Puegnet in 1901. Her husband gave his age at that time as 60. He was a widower with two grown sons, was a member of several clubs, was a director in various enterprises and was one of the city's substantial business men. His bride was employed by the Boatmen's Bank.

The episode that caused the final separation of Capt. Puegnet and his wife is said to have taken place on North Leonard avenue early in February. Capt. Puegnet received a telephone message that caused him to go to the address.

Immediately after this incident the doors of the Puegnet home at 4245 Lindell boulevard were barred to the young wife. She is said to have telephoned to her husband several times asking a chance to explain, but she was told that her personal effects had been sent to her father's home in Kansas City, and that a reconciliation was out of the question. She left the city soon after and went to her father's home.

Capt. Puegnet is said to have written a new will and then he left for Cuba with his son. Before leaving St. Louis he had instructed his attorneys to bring a suit for divorce and this suit was filed after Mr. Puegnet had left the city.

The petition filed by Capt. Puegnet is not specific, but the allegation is made that for two years the wife frequently stayed away from home until unseemly hours and that she kept company that was objectionable and that this conduct worried him. "made life intolerable" is the language of the petition.

The charges touching her acquaintances are believed to be based on Mrs. Peugnet's interest in actors and actresses, who were often her hosts or guests at dinners and parties at her residence, at 4245 Lindell boulevard. This introduction of stage folk into the family is said to have been the cause of great distress to Capt. Peugnet's family. It is said that they remonstrated with the father against the linking of the names of vaudeville actors and actresses with social events for which Mrs. Peugnet stood sponsor.

Mr. and Mrs. Puegnet were married in St. George's Episcopal Church, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Holland. Capt. Peugnet and all his family have been prominent in the Catholic Church of St. Louis, but Miss Greenleaf's refusal to sign an antenuptial agreement pledging the indissolubility of their marriage, and to make other stipulations required by the Catholic Church in such cases, the ceremony was not performed by Father F. M. Kielty, who had officiated in Capt. Peugnet's first marriage, more than 30 years before.

Mrs. Peugnet came to St. Louis 15 years ago as the guest of her grandmother, a Mrs. Henry, who lived near Sedalia, Mo., and was well known in St. Louis as "Grandma Henry." Her visits to St. Louis were made to please her friend, Mrs. S. H. Coleman, who for years kept one of the most fashionable boarding houses in St. Louis at Twentieth and Olive streets. Mrs. Henry kept house for her friend when the latter went on her vacations East.

Mrs. Peugnet has always kept up the friendship that existed between her grandmother, Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Coleman, who is now paralyzed, and lives in Pittsburg, Mass. Mrs. Peugnet went there last summer and spent several weeks nursing her childhood's friend.

Mrs. Peugnet is at the home of her father in this city. She refused Wednesday to talk about the suit for divorce.

Her mother said:

"My daughter has not one word to say. Let them make their charges. We will have our day in court."

ACTRESS POSED IN SOCIETY AS MIZNER'S WIFE

Denver People Believed Them Married Couple for Three Years.

GIRL MAY BRING SUIT

Husband of Yerkes' Widow Hurrying to Denver to Compromise.

COURT PAPERS PREPARED

Society Girl's Foster Father Believed They Were Legally Wedded.

"Talk About Your Pay Streaks," Says Mizner.

"You may talk about your Alaska pay streaks and about pulling so much per pan—but Eddy, honest, I'm on a —— sight bigger pay streak than Alaska ever saw."

That is what Wilson Mizner, the man who married the widow of Millionaire Charles T. Yerkes, told William Eddy, Deputy United States Marshal of Nome, whom Mizner had known in Alaska, when the Marshal ran across Mizner recently in the Auditorium Hotel, Chicago, and asked him what he was doing.

"In Nome, where I had known Billy," said Eddy, "he was on his uppers for fair, but in Chicago he was spending money like a drunken sailor. The careless way in which he handled money and said 'Keep the change,' nearly gave me heart disease. I didn't know about the widow then."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 21.—Mrs. Edith Samms, formerly Mis Edith Crater, society girl and actress, who was known for three years in Denver society circles as the wife of Wilson Mizner, the former St. Louisan who married Millionaire Yerkes' widow, is in Denver, and Mizner is hurrying toward this city, presumably to attempt a compromise. The actress is evidently about to enter suit on serious charges.

Mizner and the woman lived together at one time, and Mrs. Samms, introduced as Mrs. Mizner, was given the entree to the most exclusive society circles in Denver. The friends of the couple are unable to say whether or not a marriage ceremony was ever performed, but declare that they are man and wife in the eyes of the Colorado law.

Although George Crater, the woman's foster father, absolutely refuses to discuss the case, it is known that the whole thing is a revelation to him, and that he believed his daughter to be Mizner's legal wife.

Several years ago, while Mrs. Samms, who was then Miss Crater, was visiting on the coast, her father announced that she had been married and would return in a short time. When the girl arrived she was accompanied by Mizner, and they registered at a hotel as man and wife. As such they were entertained by various society people.

Court Papers Prepared.

Mizner is expected to reach Denver tonight, according to a telegram received by a friend. Mrs. Samms' friends believe a settlement of some sort will be reached, intimating that Mizner cannot afford to allow the matter to be aired in the courts. It is learned from an authoritative source that papers in Mrs. Samms' prospective suit have been prepared, but the court records do not show that any action has been instituted.

Dispatches from New York state that when Mrs. Yerkes married Mizner she knew nothing of his affairs with the actress. The latter was in Brooklyn when the news of the wedding was flashed across the country. It is believed that when Mrs. Yerkes was fully informed of the Mizner-Mrs. Samms complications she called the former St. Louisan to account and insisted that he effect some kind of settlement to forestall an action in the courts.

Actress in Seclusion.

When Mrs. Samms arrived here today she was taken in a closed carriage to the Nedley, an apartment house, at 2049 California street, just outside of the business section, where she will not be likely to be disturbed. The greatest secrecy is being maintained about every move of the young actress. So quietly did she come into town that even the nearest friends of the family are not aware of her presence.

Her foster-father, George Crater, a prominent insurance man, has been living at the Nedley for some time. Although a widower, Mr. Crater only a few days ago arranged for additional room at the apartment house. The arrival of his daughter explains this action.

Clarence Crater, a brother of the young woman, residing with his wife at 1460 Champs street, refused to talk further than to admit that his sister was in the city. He said her coming had no particular significance.

NEVER ASKED HER TO MARRY, SAID MIZNER.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—On the night that Mrs. Mizner appeared on the balcony in her home and confessed that she was married, her young husband said:

"I've been all over the world; I've known women in every clime, but I want to say there is not a woman in the whole wide world beside my present wife whom I ever asked to marry me.

"The story that comes from Denver that Mrs. Edith Crater Samms and I have been engaged to be married is absurd. Do I know Mrs. Samms? Well, I should say that I do. I know the entire Crater family. They are the most estimable people, and she is one of the sweetest and prettiest girls in the world. But I never asked her to marry me. There is nothing in the story."

Edith Crater married Harry Samms, a theatrical manager. A few years ago Samms suddenly dropped out of sight. After a search lasting over a year Mrs. Samms finally abandoned all hope of finding him. Since then he has been mourned as dead. Her sister, Allene, married Fred Stone, the actor, famous because of the scarecrow scene in the "Wizard of Oz."

MIZNER TELLS FRIEND OF HIS "PAY STREAK."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 21.—"You may talk about your Alaska pay streaks and about pulling so much per pan—but, Eddy, honest, I'm on a —— sight bigger pay streak than Alaska ever saw."

That's what Wilson Mizner, the man who married the widow of Charles T. Yerkes, told Wm. Eddy, deputy United States Marshal of Nome, when the latter ran across Mizner recently in the Chicago Auditorium Hotel, and asked him what he was doing.

Mr. Eddy returned to Seattle last night after an extended trip East and is now on his way back to Alaska.

"I entered the lobby of the Auditorium," said Mr. Eddy, "and before I had reached the desk I was nearly knocked flat by a blow on the back. I got mad in a minute, turned around, and behold, there stood Billy Mizner, the last man on earth I expected to see.

"It took me a full minute to convince myself that it was really Mizner, however. I had just come from New York and had seen some pretty merry raiment, but Mizner beat everything I had ever seen by a block. He put on a front that looked like a display window in Peacock's big jewelry store, and the careless way in which he handled money and said 'Keep the change' nearly gave me heart disease.

"It was a revelation. In Nome, where I had known Billy, he was on his uppers for fair, and here he was, spending money like a drunken sailor.

Opened Wine Early.

"I met him at 9 o'clock in the morning and he insisted on opening wine at that hour. He threw a $10 gold piece on the bar and told the barkeeper to retain the change. I looked at him in sheer amazement, and I thought of the time he used to at Nome and then I said: 'For Heaven's sake, Billy, what are you doing and where did you get it?'

"He laugned that good natured drill laugh of his and then told about his pay streak, better than Alaska ever was. Of course, at that time, I did not know anything about the Yerkes widow. Some reporter got hold of Mizner's name and he was compelled to run a gauntlet of reporters. It was then he disclosed a bit of his private life that had me crying lustily for help. 'I haven't anything to say' was the way Billy answered all questions. 'You must see my valet.'

"And, so help me," continued the Deputy Marshal, turning to San Archer, who was an interested listener, "if Mizner did not call a dapper little Englishman and turn the newspaper man over to him.

"I said then, 'Billy,' I said, 'Where did you get that valet?'

"'Oh, he's a present,' replied Mizner, with a laugh.

"That put me clear in the air, and, taking him by the shoulder I said: 'Billy, tell me who is paying your expenses?'

"He smiled a satisfied smile and said, 'My pay streak,' and with that he dismissed the subject and I never could get him to refer to it again."

Boy's Hand in Bread Box.

Policeman Munsil bid in the breadbox in front of the restaurant at 209 North Nineteenth street, early Wednesday, after a driver for the Grafeman Dairy Co. had left several cans of milk there. Soon the door of the breadbox was opened, and a hand took one of the cans. The policeman grabbed the hand, which, it proved, belonged to William Jeremiah, 15 years old, of 5 North Ninth street. The restaurant man had missed milk for several days, and had complained to the policeman. The boy will be tried in Juvenile Court on a charge of attempted larceny.

MISSOURI WOMAN'S ASSAILANT TO HANG

Poplar Bluff Court Tries and Sentences Negro in Three Hours.

CROWD CHEERS VERDICT

Prisoner Narrowly Escaped Mob After Victim Was Found on Tracks.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Feb. 21.—The record for quick justice in Southeast Missouri was established yesterday afternoon, when, three hours after he was placed on trial, Curtis Jackson, a negro, was convicted of assaulting Mrs. Dan Normal, a white woman, on Feb. 2, and was sentenced to be hanged on Friday, March 23.

A special session of court was called to try the case in order to allay public excitement over the crime. The venire of 40 men was called at 9 a. m., and as soon as the jury had been impaneled court adjourned until 1 p. m., when the trial began.

The evidence establishing his guilt was conclusive, and the jury was only 32 minutes framing its verdict of guilty and recommending death as the punishment.

Verdict Cheered.

The courtroom was jammed throughout the trial, and when the verdict was announced, the crowd broke into cheers, which Judge Jesse Sheppard and Sheriff Hogg had difficulty in suppressing.

Some difficulty was experienced at the morning session in getting counsel for the accused man. Nearly every member of the Butler County bar managed, by some excuse or other, to escape the thankless task, but, finally, the Court ordered Attorneys F. D. Gebhardt and J. P. Foard to conduct the defense.

After sentence had been passed, the negro was taken back to the County Jail, where he will be held till the day of execution.

Attacked on Railroad.

Jackson's crime was committed in the outskirts of Poplar Bluff on the evening of Feb. 2. Mrs. Norman, a married woman, was walking on the railroad tracks, when the young negro rushed upon her, overpowered her and assaulted her. She was found unconscious several hours later and taken to a physician on a handcar. She later identified Jackson positively and a mob surrounded the Jail in which he was confined, threatening to lynch him.

Sheriff Hogg took the negro from the Jail and, single-handed, forced a passage through the unorganized throng about the Jail, put the prisoner in a buggy and drove out of town, keeping the prisoner out of sight till the excitement had subsided.

EDITOR'S WIFE LASHES WOMAN

Horsewhips Her Publicly, Claiming to Have Intercepted Letters.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 21.—While Edmund P. Rucker, assistant editor of the Elkhart Truth, was in the South, Mrs. Rucker last night publicly horsewhipped Mrs. Carl Barney, accusing her of invading the sanctity of the Rucker home. Both families are very prominent and the men have been close friends.

Barney is head of the American Mutual Life Insurance Co. at Elkhart, and Mrs. Rucker claimed to have intercepted letters from Mrs. Barney to Rucker, a former Louisville, Ky., man. Last night she armed herself with a horsewhip and started on a hunt for Mrs. Barney.

She met the woman and her 16-year-old daughter on a prominent residence corner and proceeded to give her a lashing. The screams of Mrs. Barney and her daughter soon brought assistance, and the women, both hysterical, were separated. The affair has caused a sensation in both Goshen and Elkhart.

DEATH OF MISS SCUDDER.

Popular Young Society Girl Passed Away Suddenly.

The funeral of Miss Sadie Scudder, daughter of Charles Scudder, former City Treasurer, will be held Thursday morning from the family residence, 3504 Washington avenue, to Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Miss Scudder was a popular young society girl. She made her debut two years ago. She had enjoyed perfect health up to the day before her death. Wednesday she was stricken with cerebral hemorrhage and died before it was realized that she was seriously ill.

Miss Scudder is survived by her father, three sisters and three brothers. Her sisters are Mrs. Charles Carr, Mrs. Crampton, wife of Col. Crampton, and Miss Mamie Scudder. Her brothers are Cliff, Rogers and Charles Scudder Jr.

STATE'S NAVY WILL ATTACK CAPITOL IN SUMMER WAR GAME

Dash up Missouri River by St. Louis Naval Reserves to Be Followed by Assault on Statehouse, Militia Fighting on Both Sides and Battery Defending.

A dash up the Missouri River by the St. Louis naval reserves and an attack on the State Capitol by the reserves and part of the State National Guard, the other part of the militia to aid Battery A in the defense, is to be the central event of the "war game" planned for the coming summer's encampment of Missouri's volunteer soldiers.

Adjutant-General De Armond, known as "Secretary of the Navy of Missouri," said to a Post-Dispatch reporter at Jefferson City Wednesday that the plan for such maneuvers was now under consideration by him. Gov. Folk, to whom the plan has been submitted, is believed to favor it.

The organization of the St. Louis Naval Reserves is not completed, but is expected to be finished in a few weeks. Lieut. Bayard T. Bulmer, in charge of the United States naval recruiting station in St. Louis, has consented to serve on the Board of Examiners of applicants for commissions. Capt. and Surgeon Harry E. Ferrell and Capt. Allen C. Orrick of the First Regiment will also serve on the board.

Adjutant-General De Armond expects to go to Washington within a few weeks, and will consult with the Secretary of the Navy regarding a boat for the St. Louis reserves. It is customary for the Navy Department to furnish boats for the use of State naval reserves.

It is probable that there will be two encampments this year, one of the First Regiment and Sixth Battalion and the other of the Second, Third and Fourth Regiments. The plan for the participation of the Naval Reserves includes one of the encampments in Jefferson City.

It is probable that the two divisions of the militia will be under command of Gen. Emmett Newton and Gen. Henry T. Lee, two of the best known members of the Governor's staff. The Governor, as commander-in-chief of the militia, is expected to take a leading part in the maneuvers.

ALEX H. ROBBINS DEAD.

Well-Known Business Man Passed Away Wednesday.

Alexander H. Robbins, until recently secretary and treasurer of the A. Robbins Varnish Co., died early Wednesday morning at his home, 4465 Greer avenue, aged 60 years, from paresis. Mr. Robbins had long been prominent in the business world. He was a charter member of Alpha Council, Legion of Honor, a member of the society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and past president of the St. Louis Chess Club.

He was rated as one of America's greatest problemists, his problems appearing in many publications. He was born in Boston. He leaves three children, Alexander H. Robbins, editor of the Central Law Journal; Clarence, who has succeeded his father as secretary of the company, and Miss Laura May Robbins.

FAIR MANAGERS SCORED.

Legislative Committee Would Force Park Restoration.

After nearly two months of negotiating with the World's Fair management the Joint Committee of the Municipal Assembly on the restoration of Forest Park, has made its report, which was read in both branches of the Assembly Tuesday evening. It scores the Exposition officials for endeavoring to impose on the city the task of restoring the park, advises against any compromise, and suggests that the World's Fair be given another year in which to restore the park under an additional bond of $200,000.

It suggests that the Mayor be commissioned to learn what the Exposition company is willing to do along the lines which the city deems proper, and that the Mayor should then refer to the Assembly the plan which he thinks best.

CAME NEAR DYING

Abscess on the Hip—Dreadful Suffering—Hospital Treatment Failed.

Another Great Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Charles L. Hutchins is well known and popular in S. Royalton, Vt., being driver of the stage to and from Chelsea. He says of his boy, Arthur, now [illegible] portrait appears below:

"[illegible]ll on the mill dam and injured [illegible]. An abscess developed and [illegible] sickness followed. The doctors lanced the abscess and later performed an operation in the Mary Fletcher Hospital in Burlington. Arthur came near dying after the operation, but we got him home and neighbors said he would certainly die. In the spring I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, as usual, and gave Arthur a little each day. After a week or two there was a great change in the boy. He seemed hungry, and one day surprised us by exclaiming, 'How good my food tastes!' We could soon see the color coming into his face, as day by day he got better, seemed more lively and took more interest in things.

"The sore is now entirely healed, there is no pain in hip or limb. Arthur goes to school every day and his health could not be better. To our friends his cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla seems miraculous."

Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, eliminates scrofulous tendencies, cures dyspepsia and kidney troubles, gives

Sound Health, Restful Sleep

It creates good appetite, relieves all symptoms of dyspepsia, makes one feel better, look better, eat and sleep better.

SPECIAL—To meet the wishes of those who prefer medicine in tablet form, we are now putting up Hood's Sarsaparilla in chocolate-coated tablets as well as in the usual liquid form. By reducing Hood's Sarsaparilla to a solid extract, we have retained in the tablets the curative properties of every medicinal ingredient. FRANCIS SURPRISED BY PARK REPORT

Says He Expected Further Conferences With Assemblymen Before Action.

TALKS OF A NEW BILL

Declares Legislators Expressed Pleasure at Restoration Work Thus Far.

President Francis of the World's Fair made the following statement to the Post-Dispatch Wednesday:

I have read what has been printed in the morning papers of the report of the Joint Committee of the Municipal Assembly on park restoration. I am greatly surprised, not only by the spirit of the report, but that the report was made yesterday. Immediately after the appointment of the Joint Committee a conference was held at the City Hall between the city and officials of the Exposition. The Joint Committee was composed of eight members—three from the Council and five from the House. The meeting was attended by four or five members of the Assembly, by the general counsel of the Exposition Company, Judge Franklin Ferris, Secretary Walter B. Stevens, the director of restoration, Geo. E. Kessler, and myself.

After a thorough discussion of the situation, in which the kindliest spirit was manifested by the Municipal Assembly Committee, and in which the representatives of the Fair stated that the magnitude of the Exposition had exceeded all expectations, and that the time fixed in the ordinance for the restoration of the park was wholly inadequate, another meeting was arranged at the Exposition ground in order that the Municipal Assembly, through its committee, might see the progress of the work of restoration. The committee was met at the City Hall and taken to the grounds, and another conference of two or three hours was held, attended by all of the members of the committee except one or two members, by the president of the Exposition, the general counsel, the secretary, and by the director of restoration, Mr. George E. Kessler and the superintendent of restoration, Mr. D. W. C. Perry.

Committee Was Pleased.

The committee was driven over the grounds and shown the progress made in the work of restoration, including the foundation for the Saint Louis monument in front of Art Hall. The committee expressed itself as pleased with the restoration work done, and stated that in its judgment the Exposition company should continue the work, as it could in that way be done at less cost than if carried out by the city. The Municipal Assembly Committee thoroughly concurred in the opinion expressed by the Exposition representatives that the Chicago House Wrecking Co. had not pushed its work as rapidly as it should and as the terms of the contract required.

When the conference ended the committee informed the Exposition representatives that it would hold a meeting and advise us as to its action, and possibly call in the Exposition authorities for another conference. Another conference was held at the City Hall in January. The Exposition company was again represented by the president, general counsel, the secretary and Mr. Perry, superintendent of restoration. It was agreed that a bill should be framed by the Exposition company and submitted to the committee. That was done. The bill provided for an extension to the Exposition company till Dec. 31, 1906; and also for a new bond of $200,000 and for the transfer of the Art Building to the city, and for its transfer from the city to the Board of Control of the St. Louis Art Museum, which board should be increased by the addition of the Mayor, the Comptroller and the president of the Board of Public Improvements.

That bill has been in the hands of the joint committee for several weeks. The bill was delivered to the chairman of the committee, Dr. Heine Marks, by General Counsel Ferriss, who informed me that after the committee had considered the bill it would call in the Exposition authorities for another conference. Several days ago the public prints indicated that the Municipal Assembly was going to refer the entire subject to the Mayor.

I was greatly surprised to see in the morning papers that the committee had made a report to the Municipal Assembly yesterday, and upon inquiry of the general counsel, I learn that he was equally surprised, as in a conference with a member of the committee yesterday he was given to understand that no report would be made before Friday. The Exposition representatives have been holding themselves in readiness for a conference with the Municipal Assembly Committee whenever notified, and certainly expected such notice before the committee made its report.

Proposed a New Bond.

It is true that the Exposition company did make the proposition to the Municipal Assembly Committee to pay $125,000 into the City Treasury, to be used by the city in the restoration of the park and the release of the bond, and that the committee declined to agree thereto. The committee was informed that no extention of the present bond could be secured because several of the bondsmen are dead, and others have declined to agree to an extension, and others, while willing for an extension made the condition that all of the bondsmen must agree to the extension. The Exposition company then proposed to give a new bond in the sum of $200,000 if the extension should be granted. The Municipal Assembly Committee demanded an extension of the present bond of $200,000, and an additional bond of $200,000, which the Exposition company is unwilling and unable to give.

Every effort has been made by the Exposition company to comply with the conditions of the ordinance for the restoration of the park. The bill above mentioned provides that the Art Building shall be transferred to the city without any reservations whatever on the part of the Exposition company. This building cost $1,000,000.

The work of restoration is proceeding as rapidly as the weather and the work of the Chicago House Wrecking Co. will permit. The park will be restored to a condition not only equally as good, but better than when the use of it was granted by the city to the Exposition company.

There has been no effort or desire on the part of the Exposition company to evade its duty or responsibility. The report of the Special Committee treats the Exposition company as if it were a money-making undertaking which has been granted a privilege by the city, instead of a public-spirited enterprise organized by patriotic citizens and carried to a successful consummation at the expense of personal effort and great sacrifice of time and money. The City of St. Louis has gotten the benefit of the Exposition, which has accrued to its projectors and management in no greater degree than to any other citizen of St. Louis.

To Play Drama of Erin.

COSTS $4000 TO KISS MRS. DAVIS

Considered Mr. Smith Entirely Too Friendly, and Jury Agrees.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Lillian Davis wants $10,000 for "renewing acquaintanceship" with Townsend Smith, a real estate dealer, whom she formerly knew in California. She testified in court that when the process of "renewing" had proceeded merrily along to the "good fellowship" stage, Smith seized and kissed her for five minutes.

"I was so surprised that I did not make any resistance for a time. Then I regained my composure and threw him from me," she said.

Mrs. Davis said she met Smith on the street and accompanied him to his office. She could not tell how many times she was kissed, but she knew that her feelings were deeply injured.

"The jury, after hearing Mr. Smith's testimony that "If I kissed Mrs. Davis I do not remember it," gave the fair plaintiff a verdict of $4000.

Meramec School Program.

The annual entertainment and hop of the Meramec School Patrons' Association, to the children and patrons of the Meramec School, will be given at Riverside Park Hall, 4100 South Broadway, Wednesday evening. An extended program, consisting of kindergarten games and songs, under the direction of Misses Field and Gordon; recitations, piano and vocal solos, drills, dances and class songs will be given. It will conclude with a farce, "A Cup of Coffee," in which 10 children will take part, and a tableau, "The Awakening of Galatea." Those taking part will all be pupils or former pupils of the Meramec School. They have been trained by Mrs. I. V. Eyman of 4227 Virginia avenue.

GAMBLING WITH DEATH.

What Many of Us Are Doing Three Times a Day.

For everything we get something is taken away. Every act pulls two ways. Some men in power dole out their souls for it. They can't have soul and power at the same time.

And so, in this quick-living age, most of us can't have energy and health at the same time. One or the other must be lost, and it is usually health.

We know we are doing wrong, and would like to reform, but we have a morbid fear of being laughed at if we aim to live and eat according to conscience and good sense.

Some of us break away for awhile and enslave ourselves to a diet. We read about the hardy Scotsman being fed on porridge and oatcake, making soldiers of muscle and dash, and how Caesar's army was fed on corn. But the diet doesn't last long. We quickly swing back into the great line, eating and drinking to fulness like the rest, eating anything and everything, at any time, and any way we find it. We say "what is a stomach for if it isn't to obey the palate."

But there is really no one rule applicable to everybody's stomach. What one man may eat another may not.

But the dyspeptic should remember that the death list has a dark shadow hovering over it with a long bony finger pointing to "died of heart disease." Physicians will tell us that there are few cases of heart disease that do not come from a stomach derangement.

At every meal we may be brewing for ourselves a terrible case of dyspepsia. It may come upon us after breakfast tomorrow morning or after that oyster supper tomorrow night.

Acute indigestion means that you have even chances for death or life. That's the gamble you are taking. That precious gastric juice decides, as a rule, whether you continue to live or not.

Therefore, if you feel your food lies like a "lump of lead" on your stomach, beware! Your gastric juice is weak. It can't dispose of the food in time to prevent fermentation. Take something will do it effectively, and at once. Take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the most powerful tablets in the world for the relief of all kinds of stomach trouble, nausea, indigestion, the worst cases of dyspepsia, fermentation, bloaty feeling, sourness, heartburn and brash.

One grain of an ingredient of these tablets will digest 3000 grains of food. Your stomach needs a rest at once. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will relieve your stomach of more than two-thirds of the work it has to do, digesting perfectly whatever food there is in your stomach.

You can't do your work well, or be cheerful, or have energy or vim or ambition, when your stomach is bad. Make yourself feel good after a hearty meal, feel good all over, clear your mind and make you enjoy life, by taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Give your stomach a rest, so it can right itself, then you need fear nothing. You can get these tablets anywhere for 50 cents a package.

LOVE TRIUMPHS OVER AMBITION

Miss Underwood Will Abandon Operatic Stage to Become Bride.

TO WED A NEW YORKER

Belleville Young Woman Continued Profession Four Years Before Yielding.

In Los Angeles, Cal., there has been terminated a conflict between Thespis and Cupid for possession of Miss Isabelle Underwood of Belleville, the Prince Charming of "Beauty and the Beast," which Belleville friends of Miss Underwood know to have been going on for three or four years. Miss Underwood, who has been singing there and visiting her aunt, Mrs. Charles Hinchcliff, has announced that she will soon end a successful operatic career to become the bride of Arthur Latham, a wealthy broker of Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. Latham, who is a bachelor, has been a constant suitor for the hand of Miss Underwood ever since he obtained an introduction to her four years ago after hearing her sing in New York.

He repeatedly urged her to leave the stage and marry him and each season she half-way promised that it would be her last, but the next found her hearkening to the lure of the stage. She was in Belleville a month ago to visit her mother. At that time she had not made up her mind whether she would give up the stage for Mr. Latham. She spoke of having been encouraged to study for the German operatic stage and of the temptation which the inducement constituted. Still she thought a great deal of Mr. Latham and she did not know what to do.

When she went to Los Angeles Mr. Latham followed her there and pleaded so insistently that she at last assented and made the announcement that she would terminate her stage career.

Miss Underwood is a daughter of the late Edward Underwood and Mrs. Louise Ogle Underwood and a granddaughter of Mrs. Celeste Ogle. Since she went on the stage, six years ago, she has spent the summers at the country home of Mrs. Ogle, near Belleville.

THE QUESTION SIMPLIFIED.

Secretary Rassfeld of the Manufacturers' Railway Co. has simplified the question of dealing with the franchise extension which his company is seeking, by stating unqualifiedly that the company will accept any provision guaranteeing the independence of its terminals, and any fair basis of compensation to the city for the value of the franchise.

These statements taken with the agreement to avoid grade crossings and to construct bridges over the crossings from Broadway to Grand avenue, attest the sincerity of the Busches who are promoting the extension and who promise to build a complete system of terminals, with subsequently a bridge or tunnel and a southwest railroad.

The Post-Dispatch does not believe in obstructing progress or blocking investment which is needful or beneficial to the city. We believe in encouraging both under conditions which will assure benefits to the public.

The bill for the extension of the Manufacturers' Railway should be carefully drawn in a form which will meet the points of sound objection to the original bill. The guarantees of independence of the terminal monopoly should be binding. The compensation should be adequate without being oppressive. It should secure to the city the unearned increment of the franchise, leaving a reasonable return for the investors. It should guard against grade crossings. It should provide for reasonable charges and should limit the term of the franchise.

Without unnecessary delay the Municipal Assembly should act carefully and wisely on the bill.

The New York man who always writes his street number on a hotel register will not be imitated by everybody, but he will never be entirely lost.

YOUTHFULNESS OF SARAH.

When Mme. Sarah Bernhardt was asked the other day how she contrived to look so youthful at the age of 62, she laughed and said: "I do not know, unless it is that I work hard, sleep long and live as regularly as possible."

This sustaining trinity of hard work, ample sleep and regular habits is undoubtedly potent for health and consequent youthfulness of spirit, but behind it is the more potent factor of deep and vital interest in life. No person is really old who cherishes hopes and ambitions for future realization and who uses the present as but the foundation for better achievement in the days to come. Your aged soul is the soul that withdraws from the conflict and turns its gaze backward, consenting to relinquish the future into more eager hands. Then, indeed, do the years of its living become clogs of leaden weights and the passage of days but so much additional opportunity for the accumulation of the disabling rust inevitable to inaction and loss of stimulus.

Mme. Bernhardt herself is a striking illustration of this truth. It is doubtful if there is a more vital soul, artistically, in the world of her day. Old? Bless your life, she's as young and ardent as the freshest of the new generation, and is even now planning a joint starring engagement with young Mr. Richard Mansfield in Paris that shall offset any possible reaction following the excitement and triumphs of her present American tour. Old? She's too busy and too interested to grow old!

With our new bill of health from the United States Court, what has St. Louis to fear from the Chicago bacillus prodigiosus?

JEROME'S DISAPPOINTMENT.

Mr. Jerome K. Jerome is painfully disappointed with the American people because they don't take him seriously. Indeed, it is a national characteristic. They don't take anything seriously.

We are all alike. We laugh at everything at all times, in all circumstances. Such levity is out of place, thinks Mr. Jerome. It is "boyish," out of place in a man 50 years old—as much out of place as girlish, kittenish ways in an old maid."

Well, Americans are, indeed, in no hurry to grow old. The man of 50 likes to laugh and he sees many things which amuse him. And the bachelor girl, called, by the English, an old maid, which is not polite, gets fun out of life because she has the love of life in her own heart.

But are we so exclusively jolly? Do we never see the serious side of things?

The answer is found in what we have done. Benjamin Franklin, the first real American to appear, was one of the greatest humorists the world ever knew. Mr. Jerome should read his biography and then tell us whether the philosopher did nothing but laugh. Then there is Abraham Lincoln, a most admired humorist. Does Mr. Jerome know what Lincoln did, serious, great, enduring work?

Mr. Jerome seems to labor under two capital defects. First, he takes himself too seriously. Therefore we don't take him seriously. It is always so. Second, he does not know that humor is profoundly serious. This cannot be proved without a philosophical analysis, but the examples of Franklin and Lincoln will help him and his fellow countrymen to see the point.

Moreover, it is a melancholy error to suppose that a joke maker or jester and a humorist are one. A jester may or may not be a humorist. Mere jesting requires a superficial knack. Humor springs from the hidden depths of character spontaneously. With humorists humor and so-called serious thinking are in the day's work. With the jester humor is the day's work, but there may be no humor in it. Mr. Jerome should take a laugh with us. It would help him to understand us and himself.

It is to be hoped that the Council will treat the new bond issue bill with more sincerity and good faith than it treated the bill recently killed. The first step is to put the bill in approved legal form, so worded that there can be no question of its validity nor of the purposes for which the bonds are to be voted. Then it should pass both houses of the Assembly promptly and the amendments submitted to the votes of the people. There has been too much juggling over the bond issue.

AN IDEAL TO BE REALIZED.

The importance of the Civic League plan for transferring all railroad tracks and terminals from the district north of Forest Park to the unoccupied area south of the park can hardly be overestimated in its possible bearings on the future of the city. Its first result would be to check the movement of railroad tracks from private to public property—a movement to which the Post-Dispatch has been and is unalterably opposed.

Mr. William K. Bixby is comprehensively right in defining it as one of the most far-reaching ideas of a generation.

He is not less right in declaring that it ought to succeed, and to succeed now, before adverse conditions become permanent. It is to be hoped he is right also in predicting success for it as a result of combined and aggressive effort.

Briefly stated, the result of the change would be to give the city an opening for uninterrupted growth for its residence district along its present lines of development and to open for the western manufacturing district, also along its present lines of extension, a territory now almost vacant, where manufacturing industries would have room to spread for at least a generation, in connection with the increase of terminal facilities for which at present there is no visible territorial limit.

The question asked at once is: "How about the Wabash? What about the Rock Island?" It would be a grand thing to bell the cat, but how does the cat feel about it?

The present answer is that the officials of these roads "are fair-minded men."

This means, perhaps, that if convinced they will be better off financially on the south than on the north side of the park, they will move their tracks with a quickness which will astonish doubters and silence doubt.

The proposition is rightly called a large one—large enough to include the direction of the city's growth for half a century to come. Mayor Wells is right in calling it an ideal settlement of existing difficulties. The question he leaves for future development is that of realizing it. In presenting it and defining it as a plan of civic improvement, the Post-Dispatch agrees with those who think it possible to realize it.

Nothing is impossible for St. Louis—that ought to be done. Getting railroad tracks out of Forest Park and railroad terminals out of the Forest Park residence district is one of the things that ought to be done, and done as soon as possible.

If the good men who are speaking so eloquently for matrimony could give their hearers some scheme for meeting light and fuel bills, that did not involve emigration to the Philippines, the license clerks would soon be busier.

Wise Wilhelm! The Emperor has refused to suppress French caricatures of himself. Perhaps he has noticed that a great part of the popularity of Roosevelt is due to cartoons. They keep the nation laughing and, therefore, in good humor.

ST. LOUIS NEEDS A SUBWAY.

From the Mexico (Mo.) Intelligencer.

The question of subways is beginning to interest the citizens of St. Louis. When such an improvement would put passengers at the city limits from the heart of the business section in from 10 to 15 minutes, while it takes 40 to 60 minutes now, the necessity can be readily understood. St. Louis has reached that size and importance which justifies such an improvement. She is booming and the next step should be subways.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

MORALS OF THE LID.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The employe of a brewery (a collector) said to me: "The 'lid' don't bother us a bit. We sell a little less keg beer, but our bottle beer sales have more than doubled. People who formerly drank about 20 cents worth of keg beer on Sunday now order a case of beer (24 bottles), and before Monday they generally drink every drop of it. It's in the house, and the opportunity makes them drink more than usual. Instead of spending 20 cents they spend $1 for beer. We can't fill all our orders. We work day and night and on Sunday."

A liquor dealer said to me: "It may seem strange, but really, now that the 'lid' is on, we sell more liquor than we did before." If the above statements are true, what about the moral blessings and improved temperance habits of our people since the 'lid' enforcement, so much lauded by the "Ex-Brewer's Son?"

VERITAS.

RELIES ON STATISTICS.

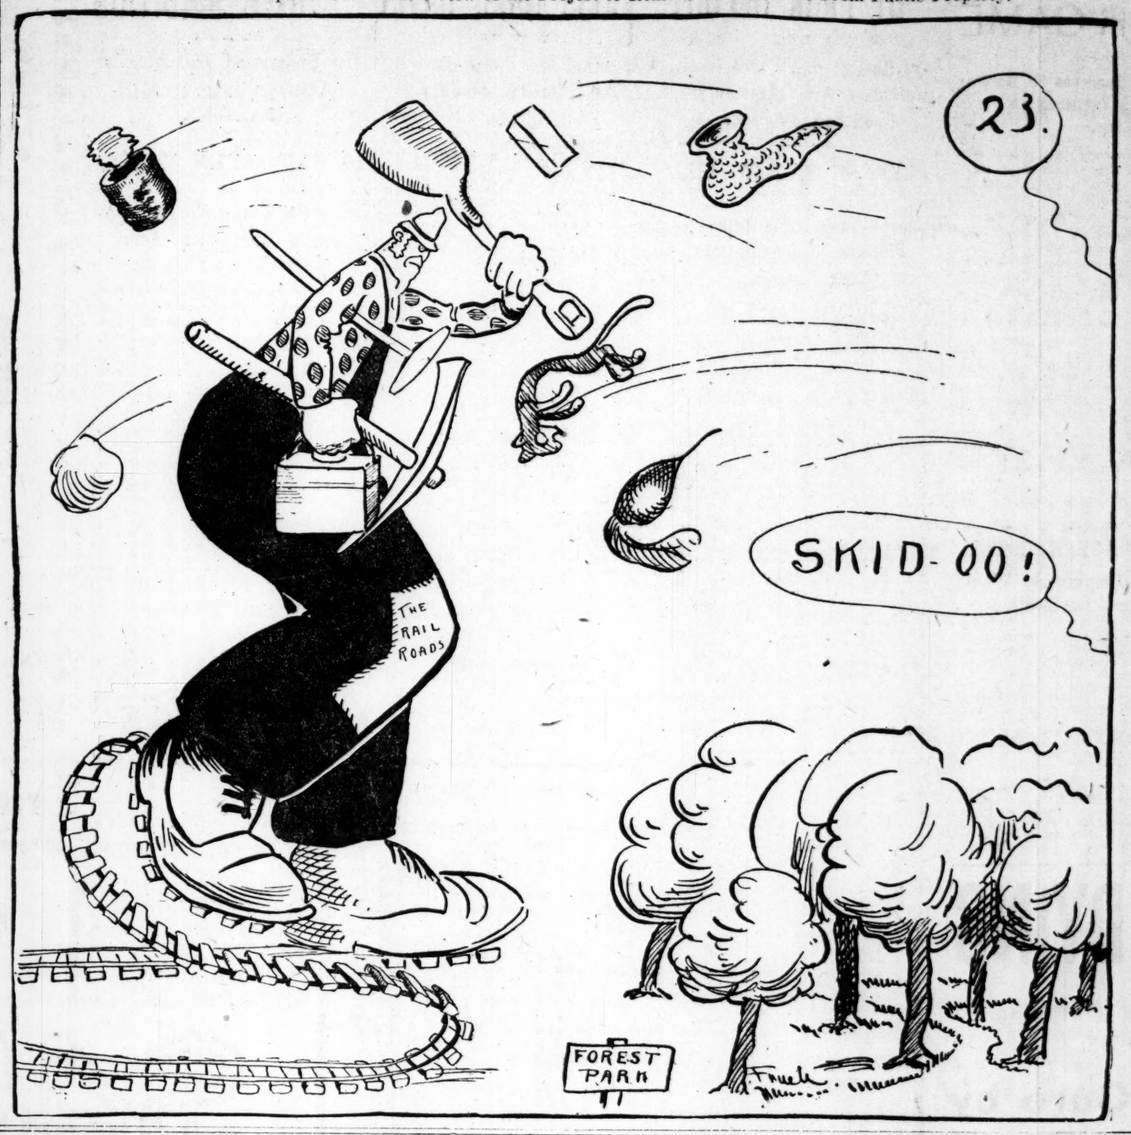

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Last night you published an article in your paper signed "Ex-Brewer's Son," which was remarkable chiefly for the apparent lack of knowledge on the subject to hand. "Ex-Brewer's Son" speaks of the lives saved, heartaches avoided, etc. Merely a casual examination of police records will show "Ex-Brewer's Son" that the number of cases of Sunday intoxication has increased steadily since the "lid" was screwed on and, worse still, a far more vicious form of indulgence has developed as a direct result of the "lid"—I mean the commonly called "dope fiend." The number of these "dope" cases in St. Louis has increased 200 per cent since the lid was put on. What do you think of a little town like Salina, Kan., having more drug fiends than the whole City of Chicago? And the anti-liquor laws are directly responsible there also.

IN THE SPRING.

In the spring a fellow's fancy
Lightly turns toward the fields,
And his heart gets sort o' dancy,
And his nature kind o' yields
To the thought o' going back again
And living with the countrymen.

In the spring it strikes a fellow
That the city's sort o' bleak,
And his heart grows kind o' mellow,
And his soul begins to squeak.
His inner nature sort o' bawls
For country life and overhauls.

In the spring a fellow as was born
Upon the outer dells
Sort o' hears the mellow horn
And clanging dinner bells;
And in his ears, far off, the strain
Of old "Pig-oo-ey!" sounds again.

A VOLCANO.

The chance that Mount Sutton, near Denver, would become an active volcano was prohibited in the beginning by the mountain's remoteness from the sea. Volcanos stick close to salt water. Still, the momentary thrill which the country enjoyed served to emphasize our acute need of a first-class volcano. We are becoming a shrewd people, and are not blind to the heavy exports of money made every year from the United States to Kilauea, Vesuvius, Chimborazo and the other volcanos which draw crowds. There is only one way of keeping this money at home, and that is to have a domestic volcano. A good active burner—a willing worker not afraid to pop off now and then—would save us in a year enough money to build a couple of battleships of the Dreadnaught type. When we annexed the Sandwich Islands we got Kilauea, the finest volcano in the world, a strictly non-union mountain independent of all natural laws, and a horse for work, with a disposition so nearly like that of President Castro of Venezuela that tourists could reasonably depend upon its misbehavior; but the Sandwich Islands, for all they are of us, are not with us, and the money we send to Kilauea mostly falls into the hands of the sugar kings, to be spent in Europe. The interest taken in the puff of smoke on Mount Sutton suggests the possibility of making a volcano of our own. Science could take one of the old cones down in Arizona, clean it out and fit it up with the proper sort of a gas plant, and we could have an active volcano that would not only entertain us, but doubtless would attract tourists from Europe.

WOMEN AND TERRAPIN, A PASTIME OF FOOLS

Quaint Comments for the Post-Dispatch

By Nixola Greeley-Smith.

Have you ever heard a sissy? They talk of love, but love, dear comrades, is but pastime for fools.—The President of the Bachelors' Amusement Society.

Maryland protects its terrapin, but not its women. — Mary Bentley Thomas.

THERE is a time before and after all our love affairs when we agree with this very wise and therefore exceedingly young man. But while Love may be the pastime of fools it is precisely those persons who have never felt its divine foolishness who alone form the brotherhood or sisterhood of "sissies."

When we think about love, when we argue about it, we are pretty apt to reach the conclusion that it is an injustice to the guinea pig to be numbered among the least intelligent animals, while we are allowed on the same sphere.

But when we are in love we know that Solomon was a prattling infant compared with us, to whom the wisdom of the ages has been imparted in a hand clasp or given, capsule fashion, in a kiss. There is a certain pride in not being in love, but compared with the pride of loving it is shrinking and modest as the first snowdrop.

The fairy "Tinker Bell," who, when told that she is an abandoned little creature because she shows her love so much, answers, "Yes, and like a true woman I'm proud of it," voices the sentiments of our entire sex.

There is a certain Diana fearlessness, yet withal a hardness about the woman who has not loved, a fine, wonderful pride in her immunity. But the woman who loves has a finer, more wonderful humility that enables her to take honor that may come to her lightly, knowing it, compared with her love, to be of such little worth, to wear dishonor as a coronet, to smile at death.

Even in the somber tragedies of passion, those of Clytemnestra, of Francesca da Rimini, of Hester Prynne, the women took probably an unalloyed pride in their forbidden love, as if they had been ingenuous maidens flashing the bethrothal diamond in the sun.

Love in its intense form does not even feel the whiplash of scorn, and I have always questioned if the sinful wearer of the "Scarlet Letter" felt half the anguish Hawthorne attributes to her. She might always have solaced herself with the thought that she wore Arthur Dimmesdale's initial, like the insignia of some royal order on her breast. For when we love, rightly or otherwise, we are just as crazy as that.

Love may be the pastime of fools, but it is the deeper wisdom of angels—of bright spirits, who know only its serene peace, its illumined tenderness, of lost souls who drink a lingering draft of its despair.

The noble sentiment anent women and terrapin was uttered in the course of the annual argument in favor of granting woman the ballot, which the suffragists think it necessary to present.

I would just as soon think of attacking a burly burglar with syllogisms in an effort to make him return his loot as trying to argue men into granting a right they are not compelled to.

But if women have to waste time and breath in this manner it seems to me they might find a more suitable comparison than the terrapin one.

Men certainly do protect terrapin, care for them, fatten them, preserve them from contamination, that they may tickle their palates the more delightfully. And that is precisely what they have been doing to us, molding us similarly to their tastes for thousands of years, and what the women suffragists are kicking about.

If I objected to being classed with children and lunatics—the veteran warcry of emancipated dames—I certainly wouldn't clamor for equal rights with the terrapin. I'd rather be compared to a child or lunatic any day in the year.

Of course, the mutual item of expensiveness makes the likeness palpable, apparent. But canvasback duck would fill that bill just as well—and the duck, it seems to me, is a nobler animal than the tortoise, and not so uncomplimentary.

The inevitable ancient jest anent always being in a stew carries the woman terrapin resemblance further.

It is impossible to deny the likeness, but it seems strange it should have been pointed out by our advance guard of emancipation.

Probably every woman with a brain big enough for an idea to turn around in is a suffragist in theory. She knows she ought to have a vote, though she isn't sure that she wants it. The wolf with its tail cut off eventually convinces himself and his brothers that tails were very unwise. But suffragists do not, we do not, want to be called terrapin.

Oriental Rugs.

From the New York World.

A well-made modern Oriental rug will grow in beauty and value for a hundred years, and the harder its usage the better. The trouble is to be sure that it is well made. The curse of cheapness and the fever of haste have not left the patient East immune. The Shah of Persia has forbidden the importation of aniline dyes into his dominion, but smuggling is easy and the cheap and fading colors are often used. A rug that has for fifty years carpeted a sheikh's tents and has become as soft and mellow as an organ note, is worth a dozen doubtful copies of today. It has been tested and proved.

STORIES TOLD IN WASHINGTON

To a Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

"Will Miss Roosevelt wear high or low necked gown?" telegraphed a frantic Cincinnati managing editor to his woman reporter here a few days ago.

"She will wear high neck and demi-sleeves," the reporter telegraphed in reply. Shortly afterwards this message came, which fell into the hands of the regular correspondent: "Understand high neck all right, but what are demi-sleeves?"

"The same as demi-tasse, only sleeves instead of coffee," was the answer.

Representative John Sharp Williams, before he came to Congress, was a member of the Board of Visitors to the state prisons of Mississippi. He with others was making a tour of the penitentiaries and saw a dejected looking convict sitting in his cell.

"What's the matter, my man?" asked Mr. Williams.

"Nothin' much," the convict said; "only I'm a victim."

"Victim of what?"

"I'm a victim of the figure 13—a judge and 12 jurymen."

"Mose" Porter was the name of a witness appearing in the Wood contested election case from St. Louis, according to the story told by Col. "Bill" Zevelly of Indian Territory.

"What is your nationality?" asked Chairman Olmsted.

"Half black and half white," answered Porter.

"What do you do for a living?"

"I jes' jog around St. Louis."

"Were any of your friends present when you made this affidavit?" asked Mr. Olmsted.

"'Deed, Mr. Committee, I ain't got a single frien' in St. Louis; and I's dead sure I ain't got none here."

Members of the House who were in the Taft party visiting the Philippines were telling of a visit to Subig Bay.

"We were within a mile of the place and saw everything," Gen. Grosvenor said.

"I saw the whole myself," Representative Hill of Connecticut said.

"We were not closer than five miles and a rainstorm was on, and we could not see anything," declared Representative Cooper of Wisconsin.

"Well, what I would like to know is what the gentlemen were drinking—whether foreign or domestic—that it could so affect their eyesight," said Representative Tawney.

"I went to dinner with some friends out in Missouri one night," said Col. Bill Zeveley of the Indian Territory "and the man of the house was a bit late in getting home. We all sat around the parlor waiting for him. The mistress of the house, a most charming lady and a fine musician, played a bit of Chopin on the piano to amuse us.

"After she had finished and the husband had not appeared, she turned to the man who was sitting on her left. 'Would you like to have a sonata now?' she asked.

"'I guess I could stand it,' he said, 'although I had a couple on the way up.'"

A POST-DISPATCH READER.—The prizes offered by this paper for the best representation of Funnyside characters are awarded by the floor committees and their judgment is final.

M. M. M.—Nose bleeding may be the result of catarrhal troubles or individual characteristics. You may grow out of it. In women it is sometimes associated with matters purely feminine.

A.—It is 40 years since Americans began to smoke cigarettes. Spain originated them. The French began to make them in 1843. British officers of the Crimean War (1854-1856) introduced them in England.

X.—If you have gained 11 pounds by taking olive oil, you do not need walking. You may gain more flesh by continuing the oil and getting enough fresh air to keep your blood pure—supposing you are careful in your diet.

JACK.—At this season itching at night is common. Your laundry may have used cheap soap, which adheres to your clothing, or it may be caused by the clothing itself if that is heavy. Talcum powder might relieve you.

K. W.—Dog distemper: Heaping teaspoonful table salt every morning for three days. Put him in unused room; give all water he can drink; wait three days and repeat. Lastly, a good dose of sulphur. Small dog will take smaller doses.

A.—If your agreement with the realty company is under seal you can be compelled to fulfill the contract. Considering the large amount you have paid, the vendor would doubtless take advantage of the option or forfeiture clause and not seek a law suit.

X. X. X.—To broaden shoulders: Stand facing wall, and about 18 inches from it. Place palms of both hands against wall, lean forward slowly without moving the feet until the chest touches the wall; resume first position, and repeat the movement. Do this about three minutes morning and evening. Always sit and stand erect.

C. W. AND ANDY.—Any alien 21 years old and upward who has served in the U. S. Army, and has been honorably discharged, may become a citizen on his petition, without any previous declaration of intention, provided he has resided in this country at least one year previous to the application, and is of good moral character. (Residence in a particular State one year is not requisite.)

M. B. B.—Lye soap: Fill iron kettle two-thirds full of diluted concentrated lye prepared according to directions on cans. Add enough melted fat to fill kettle, a ladleful at a time, stirring constantly until mass becomes creamy; next add small quantities salt at a time, still stirring, until a perfect ring can be made on the surface with a stick. Then let fire go out and soap will rise to the surface and harden as it cools, after which it may be lifted off and laid out to dry until hard enough to cut into bars.

How Dr. Morse Solved the Milk Problem

DR. W. H. MORSE is Superintendent of the Bible Mission Society in New York.

This Society is devoted to the work of starting the Emigrant right when he reaches our shores.

The one great problem was milk for the Baby Emigrant.

In a medical journal article Dr. Morse says, in speaking of the enormous death rate of Infant Emigrants,—

"66.33 per cent of the death rate was from intestinal disorders due to the use of milk of impure character .... Ordinary sterilization is inadequate, as really it renders the milk more indigestible..... Condensed milk was out of the question, as the large amount of cane sugar has altogether too much to do with causing derangement of the stomach and bowels.... I decided upon evaporated cream and chemical and experimental facts pronounced in favor of Van Camp's.... I do not know that I ever gave a "food" matter more consequential and careful research.... It was listed exclusively that it should be the only milk used.... The results have the plain accent of Health, firm flesh, clear color, from the positive nutrient elements as found in this cream."

* * *

This same safe Van Camp's Sterilized Cream solves the pure milk problem for the whole family.

It is just pure milk and nothing else, evaporated and sterilized.

Therefore you can have absolutely sterile (germless) milk and cream for your table and cooking, at less cost than the milk man's unsafe product.

You just add the water we took out.

Van Camp's Sterilized Cream comes in pint cans—double thick.

For good, rich cream for your cereal add a pint of water to a can of Van Camp's Cream.

To make 3 pints of superfine milk add a quart of water to a can.

Your grocer will deliver Van Camp's Sterilized Cream at 10 cts. a can.

By the case of 48 cans it is $4.50,—about 9 cts. a can.

You will find it unusually convenient to keep a case in your pantry.

PRESS AGENTS' EXTRA

ALL ABOUT SARAH BERNHARDT

Troubles of Two Chefs.

August Ratz, chef at the Planters Hotel, handed in his resignation this morning with a peremptory demand for its acceptance instanter. Acting Manager

William M. Cochran dodged the issue. Chef Ratz finally consented to think it over a little longer, but the resignation of the chef is in the air, and he talks about taking his whole kitchen crew with him.

It all happened because Madame Sarah Bernhardt is coming to town. Her engagement is for March 1, 2 and 3 at the Garrick, in five of her plays. Usually she remains in her car, which is a little hotel on its own account, but because of the length of the local engagement she will go to a hotel. Chef Ratz heard that it was the Planters. Then he went up in the air for further orders.

Madame Bernhardt carries her own chef, her own steward, her two maids and two men servants, her kitchen outfit, her commissary. When she goes to a hotel she takes the whole outfit with her, and her own chef, Anton, prepares all her food and serves her personally, for she never eats from a hotel kitchen.

Ratz is not a French cook, but he cooks French. In 1883 he was chef at the Restaurant du Plat 'Etan, in Paris, and twice a day he personally prepared Madame Bernhardt's meals and sent them to her at the Theater Saint-Martin. He made a cup custard that she liked so well that she would eat no other custard, nor be tempted to taste of any other custardy creation.

"And now she will bring her own chef into my kitchen to upset my pots and pans?" interrogatively demanded Chef Ratz, straight from the shoulder. "Nevaire! Par bleu! Donnerwetter!"

That's why Ratz wants to resign, but Acting Manager Cochran is diplomatically holding him off. Now there is great curiosity in the Planters kitchen to observe subsequent events when Anton, Madame Bernhardt's personal chef, walks in with his apron on and ready for business. Will Ratz shout his order: "Au bucher! A bas le French cook!"

Or will he smile his welcome and remark after the fashion of the Gaston:

"Apres vous, Monsieur Alfonse; apres vous!"

Mme. Bernhardt's Regret.

Mme. Sara Bernhardt, the famous actress who appears at five performances at the Garrick Theater beginning March 1, says that her principal regret that she is not an American is that she cannot say that she made her first appearance on any stage as Little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," or, as she translates it, "La Cabane du L'Oncle Thomas."

She has expressed the opinion that as a producer of profitable publicity this statement would be more valuable than milk baths, pet dogs or quarrels with stage managers.

When her press agent suggested that the statement could be made any way, Mme. Bernhardt objected. She absolutely refuses to consent for statements to be made about her that are not true, or at least that do not sound reasonable.

What the Divine Sara Eats.

Mme. Sara Bernhardt, who appears at the Garrick, etc., values publicity at its true worth, and she willingly submits to interviews, but she objects to disclosing too much of the intimate affairs of her life. She is particularly unwilling to talk about what she eats, when and why. Her art? Ah, that is a different matter. She will discuss that at length. But her appetite, nay, nay, ma chere Pauline.

A New York woman reporter talked with the divine Sara for some time and then asked her what she ate for breakfast.

"For breakfast," said Mme. Bernhardt, "I sometimes eat more at one time than I do at another, but never less."

Bernhardt as a Cook.

Mme. Sara Bernhardt, the eminent French actress, is also eminent as a cook, and for her intimate friends she performs wonders with a chafing dish. She makes edible Welsh rabbit that she guarantees to be dreamless and as free from nightmares as whipped cream and lady fingers. She is very particular about the cheese she uses in making the rabbit, and she emphasizes the necessity for such care by this story:

A woman entered a grocery store one day, laid a package on the counter and said: "Yesterday I sent over here for a cake of Foe to Dirt soap. It was guaranteed to remove stains without injuring the finest fabric, and to clean anything that could be cleaned, from axle grease on a skirt to spots on one's conscience, or discolorations on the finger nails. I tried the soap this morning. Tried it faithfully in hot water and in cold. The soap would not lather. Now, how can you clean things with a soap that will not lather? Tell me that."

The grocer took the package, undid it, looked at and smelled the contents and then said: "Madam, your little boy came in here yesterday and bought a pound of cheese and a cake of soap."

"He did?"

"Well, this is the cheese."

The woman herself examined the article and then said:

"Is it really? Well, that explains something else."

"What's that?"

"Why, that Welsh rabbit I made last night tasted so queer."

Mme. Bernhardt Explains.

Heaven and angels was under discussion. Some one remarked that he had never seen a picture of an angel with whiskers or mustache. "I guess men never go to heaven," he said.

"Oh, I think they some times go there," said Mme. Sara Bernhardt (see her at the Garrick soon), "but they get in only by a close shave."

Information Really "Inside."

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt is a student of religions and she can tell something about any cult from Buddhism to Dowieism. She even knows a good deal about Christian Science and can talk it as well as many C. S. D.'s who charge real fees for curing imaginary ills.

Mme. Bernhardt was one day experimenting on a youthful friend who had eaten too many green apples and was complaining of a serious pain in his equatorial region.

"You have no pain," Mme. Bernhardt assured him. "You only think you have. The pain is not really there, you merely imagine it."

"Aw, go on," said the boy, "you may think you know about this pain but you don't know as much as I do. I have inside information."

The Divine Sara's Mistake.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has what would be called a temper in a less exalted personage. Some time ago she slapped the face of the stage manager at her Paris theater because of a disagreement and the chastisement was so vigorous that it had the desired effect.

An ambitious promoter of publicity on Madame's American tour caused a story to be printed which did not please her. She openly expressed her displeasure and the manager side-stepped serious trouble by giving the name of the individual who was responsible. A week later the press agent entered Madam's car in response to her request. Two minutes later he came out of the car hurriedly and with his face flushed.

Mme. Bernhardt's cries called her maid, who found the actress nursing a badly bruised hand. She had tried slapping the face of the press agent but had not calculated on the hardness of his cheek.

Her Real Opinion.

Mme. Bernhardt, who will appear at the Garrick, was recently approached by a New York reporter who asked her to express an opinion regarding another actress whose name is known in Europe and who once had a dispute with the Frenchwoman.

"What do you think of Mrs. Blank?" asked the reporter.

"You want my candid opinion of her?" asked Mme. Bernhardt. Then, before an affirmative answer could be given, the divine Sara dismissed the subject by declaring with emphasis: "No, you don't."

The Undiscovered Cave.

Mme. Sara Bernhardt looks forward with delight to her coming visit to St. Louis. Here it was that she saw the wonderful cave where she crawled on her hands and knees to see the marvelous fish without eyes. It is expected that she will tell natives of St. Louis where this never-to-be-forgotten cave is. They have never seen it.

Here, too, she will visit the jeweler who added priceless gems to her collection because she permitted him to exhibit her jewels in his window. But maybe he has moved since she was here before.

She also will visit the great Desmond and tell him all about the robbers who cut a hole in the floor of her car near St. Louis and who were caught, tried and hanged on the spot while the engineer of her special train rolled a cigarette.

There is said to be no truth in a rumor that Mme. Bernhardt will appear as Phyllis at a mask ball in competition for a Post-Dispatch prize while here.

Sara's Letter of Protest.

Mme. Sara Bernhardt, who comes to the Garrick March 1, has sent the following message to her representative in St. Louis:

"Mons. Warner—You will notice in the papers of today an item which says that Mount Sara, in Italy, has again become active. Strange it is, but always when I am in America this Sara in Europe makes such demonstration. I am very sensitive about it. Why it is I do not know, but it is so. I beg, I plead, I implore that you will not permit those horrid American paragraphers to make the many jokes at the expense of me and this other Sara. I should die if my name should get into the newspapers in conjunction with a vulgar mountain. Do your duty, Mons. Warner. Of course they may ask you if the mountain was named after me. If you can get rid of the reporters no other way, tell them it was. You know how the Italians love me. Yours for activity. SARA."

"Camille" Causes Divorce.

Divorce courts show a multitude of peculiar reasons for severing the bonds of matrimony, but it has remained for a Pittsburg man—Henry Siegel—to claim the palm for originality. In a petition just filed, he charges that his wife, Katarina, failed to get his supper at 6 o'clock, having "frivolously, expensively and with cruel neglect remained away from your petitioner's domicile to attend a matinee performance of a certain play known as 'Camille,' written by one Dumas and then being played, presented or produced at the Belasco Theater by one Sarah Bernhardt, actress."

"Camille" is three hours long, and is usually presented as a matinee bill. It is needless to say that 6 o'clock supper or dinner is out of the question. That was where Katarina, she of the divorce case, fell down in her domestic relations. She had been spending many days poring over the English translation of the libretto, reading the book and pondering the love troubles of the fair Marguerite Gautier, and when the sale began she was one of the 400 who stood in line in six inches of snow, waiting to buy a ticket. On the day of the matinee she was in a seat well down in front, and she didn't leave until Marguerite had finished her troubles by dying peacefully in the arms of Armand Duval. By the time Katarina had her eyes dry and started for home it was 6 o'clock.

Heinrich simply wouldn't stand for it, to use the vernacular; hence the suit.

Youth Is Paroled.

Albert Trapf, 13 years of age, who was sentenced to 15 days in County Jail and fined $5 and costs by Justice John Crescelius on Feb. 3, for appropriating wire belonging to the Bell Telephone Co., has been paroled. The parole is to be in effect for six months.

"I'm Well

Because of Liquozone," is a Tale Told Everywhere.

In almost every hamlet—every neighborhood—there are living examples of what Liquozone can do. Wherever you are, you need not go far to find some one who has been helped by it.

Talk to some of those cured ones; perhaps your own friends are among them. Ask if they advise you to try Liquozone. Or let us buy you a bottle, and learn its power for yourself. If you need help, please don't wait longer; don't stay sick. Let us show to you—as we have to millions—what Liquozone can do.

What Liquozone Is.

The virtues of Liquozone are derived solely from gases, by a process requiring large apparatus, and from 8 to 14 days' time. No alcohol, no narcotics, are in it. Chemists of the highest class direct the making. The result is to obtain from these harmless gases a powerful tonic-germicide.

The great value of Liquozone lies in the fact that it is deadly to germs, yet harmless to you. Germs are of vegetable origin; and this gas-made product, when absorbed by them, stops their activities. We publish an offer of $1000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. But to the body Liquozone is exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. It is helpful in the extreme.

That is its main distinction. Common germicides are poisons when taken internally. That is why medicine proves so nearly helpless in a germ disease. Liquozone is a tonic.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone, after hundreds of tests had been made with it. After its power had been demonstrated, again and again, in the most difficult germ diseases. Then we spent, in two years, more than ten times that sum to let others test it at our expense. The result is that millions of people, scattered everywhere, have shared in the benefits of this invention.

We make the same offer to you. We ask you to prove, at our cost, how much this product means to you. Let Liquozone itself show how wrong it is to suffer from a trouble that it cures.

Germ Diseases.

Most of our sickness has, in late years, been traced to germ attacks. The list of known germ diseases now numbers about one hundred.

Some germs—as in skin troubles—directly attack the tissues. Some create toxins, causing such troubles as Rheumatism, Blood Poison, Kidney Disease and nerve weakness. Some destroy vital organs, as in Consumption. Some—like the germs of Catarrh—create inflammation; some cause indigestion. Directly or indirectly, nearly every serious ailment is a germ result. Such diseases call for Liquozone—not drugs, which can't kill germs.

Every germ attack, no matter what its symptoms, calls for a germicide. The mildness of Liquozone makes some of its results seem almost incredible. But in that mildness lies the power that germ diseases need. And diseases which have resisted medicine for years often yield at once to it.

50c Bottle Free.

If you need Liquozone, and have never tried it, please send us this coupon. We will then mail you an order on a local druggist for a full-size bottle and will pay the druggist ourselves for it. This is our free gift, made to convince you; to let the product itself show you what it can do. In justice to yourself, please accept it today, for it places you under no obligations whatever.

Liquozone costs 50c and $1.

POST-DISPATCH PAGE OF SPORT

Edited by J. B. Sheridan

If there is anything in the world I do abominate it is short logic. A professor of Iowa University, defending his college team for its frank admission of professionalism, says that he cannot see what harm there is in a young man paying his expenses through school by playing ball as a professional.

No harm in the world. He is to be praised for his worthy ambition. Let him play all the ball and get all the money and education he can. Let him play all the scrub ball at college he wants and take all due exercise for his health.

But there is no reason on earth why he should be allowed to play on the university nine, which is supposed to be composed of amateur players. Denying him this is no infringement on the rights or liberties of the athlete or the citizen.

By all means let the worthy young man work his way through college in any honest way and playing ball as a professional is an honest method. But why is it desirable that he should be played as an amateur on the college team?

Now, why? What wrong is done him, what injustice worked by refusing to allow this professional to represent his college as an amateur?

When Joe Gans was willing to flop to them, Britt, Nelson and other pugilists did not have a word to say against him. Now that he has cut flopping out, they are a unit in crying that he be barred from the ring as a faker.

In 1902 the Browns virtually won the American League pennant. In 1905 they finished last. Yet more people paid to see them play bad baseball in 1905 than paid to see them play good baseball in 1902. Mr. Hedges, who owns said Browns, greatly regrets the repeal of the breeders' law, which wiped out horse racing as a counter attraction in St. Louis.

May we suggest a championship battle between Gentleman James Britt, who can win from any faking negro, and Gentleman Mike Donlin, who can whip any waiter, Pullman porter or chorus girl in the country. Catch weights, no holds barred.

Murray Howe says that Lou Dillon had the "thumps" when she met Major Delmar at Memphis. From the way things are looking up, Howe will be complaining of getting the "thumps" pretty soon himself.

This is the week the Sons and Stroms congregate at Ishpeming, Mich., to decide who is the best ski jumper in America.

Rockenfield, the second baseman of the Browns, will not sign his contract because he thinks that the making of two double plays last year entitles him to an increase in salary. Rock only assisted in one double play the previous year and he feels that by the natural laws of progression that he might make three next season. And he figures them cheap at $1000 per piecem.

We intuitively associate the name Mercury with speed and winged feet, but in Lou Dillon's case it seems to have been lead in her boots.

Now we are told that Eiglishmen, as distinguished from the Gaels and Celts of Wales and Scotland, cannot play football. This is no news to the Irish.

The man who writes James J. Corbett's pugilistic letters for him ought to post himself upon the occupation and habits of ring lights. Writing to the Illinois Journal, Corbett draws a pathetic scene of Joe Gans going to Eddie Graney's "little blacksmith shop" and promising to do anything the honest farrier may tell him, if he will only help him follow the straight and narrow path. The trouble with the story is that the alleged smithy is really a concert hall and the smith a saloon keeper. Graney out out the blacksmith shop 15 years ago. But it reads better to have a faking mulatto doing the Uncle Tom to a blacksmith than the keeper of a dance hall. Ha, unhand me, villain. The rugged honesty of Cincinnatus and old Israel Putnam at the plow and the village blacksmithery of Col. Ed Butler!

Bob Douglas gives full and fair notice that he proposes to perform a miracle on the mat at the Crescent Roller Rink next Friday night. He says he will pull off a square wrestling match.

Spectators who went out to see Clancy, Brady, Shannon, Cook and O'Brien play football Sunday afternoon complain that they got a fight as well as a game for their money. Did they think when they read the list of the guests of honor it was to be a pink tea?

Miles J. Burke says that Fritz Lehman's defection will put the Washington University track team on the "fritzser."

Asked how he liked his pugilistic visit to Kansas City, Bob Douglas waxed enthusiastic. "Why," he said, "Kansas City makes St. Louis look like a water tank in the Sahara. When a fighter goes there the first thing he does is have the Chief of Police call. Then you see the price of admission to the go on the bills in figures two feet high. Oh, I tell you it is a live town. No membership or private snap to their fights there. You put down your dough and plant in your chair."

Oh, those lovely admission fees. How they make villages look like metropoli to the fistic promoter.

There are times when we become discouraged with the young men, especially the rich young men of St. Louis. No hunt clubs, no polo clubs, no racquet clubs, few golf clubs, fewer athletic clubs, but plenty of "lid" clubs.

It is meet and proper that there should be a big kennel club in St. Louis. The records of the city registrar show that there are some 25,000 licensed dogs within the corporate limits. Of these at least one-third are of high breeding. For few men who do not know enough about a dog to appreciate breeding will pay license for one. Scarce half of the dogs in the city are registered.

With probably 7000 well-bred dogs in its confines and a large number outside of the city limits, St. Louis certainly must possess the material whence a fine dog show can be produced. Two thousand dogs makes a record bench for any show. Several hundred animals will come to St. Louis with the circuit. Indeed a bench show held in this city in April should bring 1500 dogs to the Coliseum.

No stock display attracts so much attention, per se, as a kennel show. Clothes help horse shows. Dogs have more close personal friends than horses. To be sure most dogs are pets and beloved in a manner more or less frantic. He or she is indeed a poor proprietor who is not quite certain that his or her dog can win first prize in his class on any bench.

Though a trifle late it is good news to St. Louis that there will be a dog show. Breeding, rearing and training fine dogs is a high art and it is proper that we should give it fullest expression.

CAMPBELL-GRAY AT BILLIARD TABLE.

Argument over the balk line billiard match between Dr. Will O. Campbell and George Gray, scheduled for Wednesday night at the Royal, is furnishing material for keen discussion. The match is quite the most important one of the year, and will be decisive, as on it will depend to whom is to go the silver loving cup offered for supremacy in the balk line tournament, for the possession of which Campbell and Gray are now tied.

With Campbell one game in the lead the two men met last week at Hauser's with Charles C. Peterson, the local champion, refereeing.

Near the close of the match Peterson turned to score on the string, and as he did so Gray shot. Peterson had called the balls "in," and turned as Gray was shooting. Campbell claimed it was the third shot in balk and Peterson said "no." Spectators in the crowd took sides, some with Campbell, others with Peterson.

DAN SHAY REFUSES TO JOIN CARDINALS

Infielder Says That He Will Spend the Summer at His Home on Pacific Coast.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21.—Danny Shay made the positive announcement late last night that he would not return to St. Louis again. Shay says that his business ventures have proven so successful that he cannot afford to neglect them, even for the offer made to him to return to the Mound City.

If Shay cared to do so, he could return to St. Louis and be appointed captain of the St. Louis Club. But Mrs. Shay cannot stand the St. Louis climate. Her health has been delicate and Dan has decided to remain in California.

Shay has been in constant correspondence with the Robisons. They have written to him asking him to report at any time, and declare that he will be warmly welcomed by them.

Danny is to have charge of the baseball club of Stockton. The little infielder will net a very handsome income from his different ventures, and at the same time will be with his family. Shay's retirement from the National League this season will likely mean his retirement from major league circles for the rest of his life. He is not over-fond of the climate east of the Rockies.

HOT Bingles From the Bat

Manager McAleer is expected to arrive in St. Louis from Youngstown, O., Wednesday. On his arrival the Browns' manager will immediately repair to the Southern, where he will stay until the team leaves for the South, March 2.

The Browns have refused to waive claim to Manager A. O. Jordan of the Atlanta team, who is the property of the Cleveland Club. Cleveland asked for waivers on him, but McAleer informed Somers, Lajoie & Co., that he may conclude to use Jordan himelf and would rather have him where he could lay hands on him.

President Pulliam announces the release by the Boston Club of Wilhelm, who made such a sensation for the Beaneaters as a spitball pitcher during the early days of the 1905 campaign.

PELTY DESIRES INCREASE IN SALARY

Browns' Pitcher Is Not Quite Pleased With Contract Offered Him.

Barney Pelty, the pitcher, arrived in the city Tuesday from his home at Farmington, Mo. Pelty came up to see Hedges and McAleer and talk over the terms offered him for the season of 1906. Bernard argues that his work during the season of 1905 was sensational considering the team he was with. He deduces from this that he should have more money during the season of 1906.

IN Socker Society

C. F. Girvin, Triple A.'s left halfback, is fast, sure and can always be depended upon to do the right thing at the right time.

Casey of St. Louis University plays a good game and no pace seems too strenuous for him.

Gene Schmid is the Jamieson of the Saturday Afternoon League. Schmid seems to kick with facility no matter how the ball is served at him.

For clean, consistent, heady play, there is no better forward than Artie Lewis. His work is not spectacular and is probably better for his team on that account.

Kunz of Triple A. is a very fast forward and plays a rattlingly clever game.

Y. M. C. A. and St. Louis University deserve a great deal of credit for playing out their schedules under the handicaps imposed upon them by lack of interest and support.

Albert of Y. M. C. A. is confident that the Grand avenue organization will defeat C. B. C. Saturday.

The Saturday Afternoon League may well be proud of the clean article of socker it has furnished for the edification of football enthusiasts.

FELONY TO BET IN NEW YORK STATE

Lansing-Cassidy Bill Much More Drastic Than Was at First Supposed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 21.—The Lansing-Cassidy bill to suppress betting on race tracks in this State was introduced in the Senate last night by Senator Cassidy. It was referred to the Codes Committee, and it is understood that a hearing will be fixed for next week. The bill is much more drastic than at first appeared. It makes betting on horseraces a felony and provides that no sentence of imprisonment for the offense shall be for less than one year. It further provides that the Court may both imprison and fine a convicted person. Senator Cassidy says the bill will have the support of "sturdy stock," and that the representatives of the foremost reform and anti-vice associations of the State will come to Albany to urge its passage.

WALSH WHIPS JACK LANGDON.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.—Jimmy Walsh of Boston had the better of Jack Langdon of this city in a fast six-round wind-up at the Washington Sporting Club last night. The early rounds were somewhat slow, but the last four were exciting. Walsh evidently having in mind his bout with Abe Attell next Thursday, fought very carefully. He proved too clever for Langdon at long range.

Experts Say That He Is Quite a Ball Player

K. C. NILES.

K. C. Niles, the second baseman secured by the Browns from the Athletics Club, played last year with Birmingham, in the Southern League. His excellent allround work was the feature of games his club played in, and it is predicted that he will make the Browns' second sack without question. He batted .335 and had a fielding percentage of .916.

He made his debut under Campau at Binghamton, N. Y., and after remaining with that organization two years went with the Birmingham team.

To annex permanent possession of the Browns' second base he will have to prove a better bagman and batter than Rockenfield, O'Brien or Hartsel, all of whom are supposed to have good chances for that position.

Athletic Atoms

Washington University freshman and Central High track teams will have a dual meet about the middle of April, on a date still to be selected.

Capt. Ferris of Manuel is having trouble with members of the track team who will not report for the semi-weekly cross-country runs, which are deemed necessary to condition Manual's athletes for the indoor meet.

Ellers, who will probably be Smith's main reliance in the sprints, was out Tuesday practicing starts.

Washington University's basket ball team has disbanded.

Andrew Duncan is probably Central's best allround man. He will be its hope in the dashes and a member of the relay team.

Lincoln is flying over the low and high hurdles these days in a manner that presages points for Central.

ENGLISH CANNOT PLAY FOOTBALL

Irish, Scotch, Welch and New Zealanders All Defeat the Anglians at Rugby.

The melancholy record of failure which has attended the efforts of English rugby teams during the last few years has disgusted the supporters of the game, and those who have not gone over to the rival code are clamoring for reform.

But the most remarkable thing about it all is the contempt with which English rugby football is viewed by the other nations. "Who has the worst footballers?" shouted out the Hartley University students when bidding farewell to the New Zealanders at Southampton. "England," was the reply, and it was about right.

The following table shows the last victories gained by the English rugby XV in international matches:

Wales, 1898—eight years ago.
Scotland, 1902—four years ago.
Ireland, 1904—two years ago.

Looked at in the cold light of figures, the situation is simply appalling, and no remedy can be too drastic which is likely to bring about a better state of affairs.

The questions naturally arise: Are the men or the methods most to blame? Are English-born footballers inferior to those nurtured in other countries, or is the English Rugby Union so mismanaged that the good football inherent in the players is not brought out and properly developed?

WOLVERTON JUMPS BOSTON NATIONALS

Third Baseman, Dissatisfied With Terms, Joins Williamsport Outlaw Team.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Feb. 21.—Third baseman Harry Wolverton today "jumped" the Boston National League Club and signed with the Williamsport Club of the Tri-State League. Wolverton, who is said to have been dissatisfied with the offer made him by Boston, came here today and held a conference with Manager Sebring, the result of which was his deciding to play with Williamsport.

TOPICS of the Turf

It is said that Newton Bennington intends this to be his last year on the turf.

J. A. Hadley Jr., has surrendered his contract on Jockey William McDermott.

The next regular meeting of the Board of Stewards of the Western Jockey Club will be held Monday, March 5.

Admirable Critchton, the half-brother to Pretty Polly, is attracting some attention as a candidate for the Epsom Derby.

Jockey Shaw is back in New York. He has no engagement for the coming season, but is considering a couple of offers he says.

John Huggins, who saw Rock Sand run in all of his races in England, says that great horse does not compare with Sysonby.

Many mares in Kentucky have slipped their foals this year. There seems to be an epidemic of this in the blue grass country this year.

The yearlings at Woodlands are said to be the best lot of all-around young thoroughbreds that Barney Schreiber's noted farm has yet produced.

Goldfinch has arrived at Elmendorf Stud in Kentucky from Ranco del Paso in California. He was transferred under the care of the veteran John Mackey.

M'CLOSKEY ACQUIRES FOUR PLAYERS FOR CARDINAL COMBINE

Vice-President Robison Arrives in St. Louis and Announces That His Manager Has Not Been Idle—The Shay and Burke Affair.

Vice-President Stanley Robison of the Cardinals arrived in St. Louis from his home in Cleveland Wednesday morning. Mr. Robison had much news to communicate. For instance, he announced that Manager McCloskey had signed three new men for the club, all of his own selection, fellows he had seen play in the Northwestern leagues.

The most promising one of the lot is P. C. James, who played first base for the Seattle club of the Pacific Coast League last year. James is built on the lines of Bransfield and is said to be a hitter of exceptional power. He has always rated among the best fielders of the coast league and a clever knowledge of inside work is said to have been what first attracted the attention of the Cardinals' manager.

H. C. Hausen, who played last year with one of the Montana clubs, has also been signed and will be tried out at that station.

John J. Burns, second baseman, who made his mark with Seattle in the Pacific Coast League by his great work around that sack, is the third newcomer that McCloskey has corralled.

Mr. Robison also announced that he had signed O. H. Stange, a catcher of the Stockton club, upon the recommendation of Danny Shay, who says that the lad was the best receiver in Northern California.

Confident Shay Will Report.

Asked about the rumor that Shay would not be with the club this year, Mr. Robison smiled and said that he was confident that Shay would report. "He may be a little late, but I am confident that he will be with us," he said. Mr. Robison declined to acknowledge that he was cognizant of the proposed sale of Burke to the Kansas City club.

"I have the signed contract of Burke with our club for next season," said Robison, "and we would have to go a long way before securing a more desirable man for the position. Jimmy is a hard worker and a hustler. We will not release him unless some one can show us that it will be to the ultimate benefit of the club.

"The trouble with Grady has been adjusted. We had arranged to exchange him to the New York Club, but we wanted a catcher of equal value in exchange. McGraw offered us Marshal, last year with the Indianapolis Club. We declined the trade, as we have a better man than Marshal in Slattery, who has proven his worth in big league company, something Marshal has not. Grady explained to my brother that he is anxious to come back to St. Louis and show the people that he is not to blame for the discord and dissension that disrupted the club in the past. There is nothing in the report that he will be field captain. That is entirely up to Mr. McClosky.

"I have sent the following contracts to President Pulliam for promulgation. They represent the Cardinal players that have signed with me to date: Burke, Egan, Spade, Shay, Arndt, Hoelskoetter, Himes, Jokerst, De Groff, Frantz, Clayton, Dunleavy, Taylor, Shay, Slattery, McBride, Smoot, Leahy, Holmes, Brown, Hausen, Stange, James, Byrne."

Alex Shields says that the fact that Lieber struck a losing streak at Crescent Park should not be taken as an indication that he will not win the Crescent City Derby.

The colt Irish Brigade which is entered at Oaklawn Park for the first time today, was originally named Marshall Biggs, but permission to change it was granted by the Registrar.

OLD PEOPLE CONSTANT SUFFERERS IN WINTER

Most old people are great sufferers in Winter. They are seldom free from pains or ailments of some description, because they are not as able to withstand the severity of the climate, with its damp, changing weather, as are their younger, more vigorous companions. Cold weather starts the old aches and pains; they suffer with chilly sensations, cold extremities, poor appetite and digestion, nervousness, sleeplessness and other afflictions peculiar to old age. With advancing years the strength and vitality of the system begin to decline. The heart action is weak and irregular, the blood becomes thin and sluggish in its circulation, and often some old blood taint that has lain dormant in the system for years begins to manifest itself. A wart or pimple becomes a troublesome sore or ulcer, skin diseases break out, or the slight rheumatic pains felt in younger days now cause sleepless nights and hours of agony. There is no reason why old age should not be healthy and free from disease if the blood is kept pure and the system strong, and this can be done with S. S. S. It is a medicine that is especially adapted to old people, because it is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, selected for their purifying, healing and building-up properties, and is very mild and gentle in its action. S. S. S. warms and reinvigorates the sluggish blood so that it moves with more rapidity, and clears it of all impurities and poisons. As this rich, healthy stream circulates through the body every part of the system is built up, the appetite and digestion improve, the heart action increases and the diseases and discomforts of old age pass away. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, and all troubles arising from diseased blood.

Health of American Women

Subject Much Discussed at Women's Clubs—The Future of a Country Depends on the Health of Its Women.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen Miss Mattie Henry

At the New York State Assembly of Mothers, a prominent New York doctor told the 500 women present that healthy American women were so rare as to be almost extinct.

This seems to be a sweeping statement of the condition of American women. Yet how many do you know who are perfectly well and do not have some trouble arising from a derangement of the female organism which manifests itself in headaches, backaches, nervousness, pelvic catarrh, displacement of the female organs, indigestion or sleeplessness? There is a tried and true remedy for all these ailments. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored more American women to health than all other remedies in the world. It regulates, strengthens and cures disease of the female organism as nothing else can. For thirty years it has been curing the worst forms of female complaints.

Such testimony as the following should be convincing.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen of Manning, Ia., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"I can truly say that you have saved my life and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words. For two years I spent lots of money in doctoring without any benefit for womanly ills, and I had given up all hopes of ever being well again, but I was persuaded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and three bottles have restored me to perfect health. Had it not been for you I would have been in my grave today."

Miss Mattie Henry, Vice-President of Danville Art Club, Danville, Va., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"Many years' suffering with organic trouble, inflammation and a broken down system made me more anxious to die than to live, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored my health and I am so grateful for it that I want every suffering woman to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do for her."

When women are troubled with pelvic catarrh, displacements, inflammation, backache, bloating (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion and nervours prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritabilty, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. No other medicine in the world has received such unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record for cures for organic troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write to her for advice. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women. Her advice and medicine have restored thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

MURDER AND A MILLION THEFT ARE LAID BARE

Lawyer Solves Eight-Year Mystery of Millionaire's Disappearance.

DEPOSIT VAULT RIFLED

Box Which Held Fortune in Various Securities Found Empty.

ARRESTS ARE PROMISED

John Stinson of San Francisco, Rich Victim, Buried in Potter's Field.

PORTLAND, Me., Feb. 21.—A startling story of murder, followed by a $1,000,000 robbery, the latter a mystery for eight years, the former unknown until within a week, was given out last night, when it became known that Robert C. Foster, a young attorney of this city, had solved the mysterious disappearance of John Stinson, the San Francisco millionaire who has been missing for eight years.

Foster, at the same time, discovered that the safety deposit vault which Mr. Stinson owned in the Union Trust Co. of San Francisco had been opened and papers, stocks, bonds, etc., representing upward of $1,000,000, had been removed.

Mr. Foster, acting in the interests of Mrs. Sarah Connor of this city, a sister of Mr. Stinson, went to California a month ago to try to unravel the mystery surrounding the disappearance of her brother, which has baffled all investigation during the past eight years.

By clever detective work he found that a man answering the description of John Stinson had been murdered in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, in September, 1898, at just the date that Stinson had disappeared. The body was unidentified and was buried in the potter's field.

Pictures of Body Shown.

Photographs taken of the corpse at that time were produced, and a short time ago, in the San Francisco Superior Court, were identified by friends of Stinson. Mrs. Connor's telegraphed description of her brother also tallied with a description of the body, even to a ring on his finger.

Attorney Foster then appealed to the Court for an administrator of the estate. W. J. Hynes was appointed on the strength of the murder testimony, and he requested the Union Trust Co. to give him access to the safety deposit box owned by Stinson, and unopened for eight years. They refused on the ground that murder had not been established, but the Court ordered them to comply.

To the consternation of the administrator and the attorneys, the box was found empty. Yet, just prior to Mr. Stinson's last visit to the box in August, 1898, three weeks before his disappearance, it was known to contain title deeds to mining property in Arizona and British Columbia representing hundreds of thousands of dollars, a $100,000 draft on the Bank of England and $80,000 in Government bonds.

Mr. Foster says his detectives expect to make arrests in a short time.

Fathers Huntington and Sill, O. H. C., will conduct a mission in Christ Church Cathedral, Thirteenth and Locust streets, from March 18 to April 1. Each day during that time special conferences for women will be held at 3 p. m. and services each night at 8 p. m.

HAS NO STOCK HOLDINGS.

Germania Co. Excepted Under Proposed Insurance Rule.

Dispatches from New York Monday which told of the recommendations of the legislative committee that has recently investigated insurance methods, said that if the suggestion that life insurance companies be prohibited from investing in the stocks of corporations is followed, all insurance companies doing business in New York except the New York Life would have to reorganize their investments. The New York Life sold its holdings of stocks some years ago in order to do business in Germany.

President Cornelius Doremus of the Germania Life Insurance Co. takes exception to this statement. He says that his company has not owned stock in any corporation for more than a third of a century and that it has been doing business continuously in Germany since 1868. Mr. Doremus says that his company has always complied with the strict requirements of the German laws.

"Dave" Marple in "De Lancey" Has "Dave" Francis for Original

Eminent Missourian Dramatized in Thomas' Comedy at Olympic Next Week.

David R. Francis of Missouri, dramatized by Augustus Thomas, formerly of Missouri, will be seen on the Olympic stage next week, beginning Monday evening, in the footlight figure of Col. "Dave" Marple of Missouri in Mr. John Drew's society comedy offering, "De Lancey."

Playwright Thomas confesses that "Dave" Francis was his original for the character of "Dave" Marple, and Player Menifee Johnstone was selected for the role because of his general personal resemblance to Gov. Francis, which he increases by means of a make-up frankly intended to effect a counterfeit presentment of the character's original. Not only this, but Mr. Johnstone is also said to imitate Gov. Francis' walk, carriage of body and gestures in order to intensify the likeness.

The result is described as, in effect, that of placing Gov. Francis veritably before the play-going public as if in his proper person.

"Gus" Thomas knew Gov. Francis well in St. Louis, has met him frequently since success as a playwright sent Thomas himself to New York, and believes that he has drawn a faithful picture of "Dave" Francis in "Dave" Marple. He makes Marple "a prominent man from St. Louis, calculating as a Yankee and hospitable as a Texan, a man who insists on a square deal at all stages of the game." At one moment in the play of "De Lancey," where "Dave" Marple mentions the St. Louis World's Fair, "Gus" Thomas makes him speak of it as "my Fair," thus identifying the stage Marple with the real-life Francis more strongly than ever.

Again, in an exciting scene, in which Gov. Francis' stage double "calls down" John Drew as De Lancey for what he believes to be a trifling with the affections of his (Marple's) daughter, the "Dave" Francis of the stage is made to declare himself as follows:

"I come from Missouri, where people expect the goods in every deal to grade up to sample. Whenever we are convinced that the cards are stacked we stop the deal."

The scene in which this Missouri declaration is voiced by the dramatized David R. Francis is laid in a greenhouse to which De Lancey has been brought with a broken collar-bone, the result of a fall from his horse while riding to hounds. His injuries are being attended to by "Dave" Marple's beautiful daughter, and Marple himself, not knowing of De Lancey's hurt, thinks the two are together in a clandestine meeting. He talks to De Lancey straight from the shoulder, and, at one time, it seems that the two will come to blows, but finally "Dave" Marple learns that De Lancey has just sustained a fracture of the collar-bone and was brought to the greenhouse as the nearest place handy, there meeting Miss Marple by accident.

"Why didn't you tell me all this before?" asks Marple.

"Because I didn't think it would interest you," De Lancey replies.

"Hell!" comments "Gus" Thomas' dramatization of "Dave" Francis.

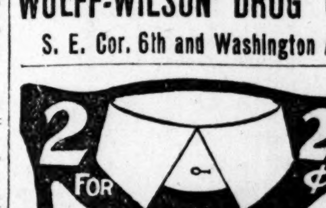

And it's now up to Gov. Francis to say if he would have used this forcible word on such an occasion. Playwright Thomas evidently thinks he would.

It's also up to Gov. Francis to get a look at his stage double and see how he likes him. Playwright Thomas and Player Johnstone have done their best to make him true to the life.

More than ONE MILLION people in the city of St. Louis and contiguous territory READ the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH EVERY Sunday.

IN SOCIETY

Notices of social events intended for publication in the Sunday Post-Dispatch should reach the Post-Dispatch office not later than noon of the Friday preceding.

The marriage of Miss Harriet Fowler, daughter of Mrs. H. Fowler, and George Helmuth, was celebrated Wednesday morning at 10:45 o'clock at St. Francis Xavier's Church. High mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Bronsgeest. Miss Fowler wore a handsome bridal gown of heavy white satin, with priceless point lace worn by her grandmother at her wedding. There were no guests but the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom and some intimate friends. Miss Grace Little was the bride's only attendant and Mr. Helmuth had as his best man Mr. Fouke. Mr. and Mrs. Helmuth departed after a bridal breakfast at the Washington avenue home of the bride's mother for the Florida resorts.

Mrs. Walsh's reception from 4 to 6 o'clock in honor of Mrs. Julius L. Walsh Jr. will be the brilliant afternoon affair of Wednesday. Mrs. Walsh will have assisting her Mrs. Walsh Jr. and her daughter, Mrs. Jack Geraghty, Mrs. Charles Palms of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Maffitt and Mrs. John Savage Bates of Annapolis. About 500 invitations have been issued.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben T. Cable of Rock Island, Ill., will give a reception at the St. Louis Woman's Club Wednesday evening for their pretty debutante daughter, Miss Susanne Cable. Nealy 100 invitations have been issued.

Mrs. John E. Hill, assisted by Miss Agnes O'Reilly, was hostess at the Buckingham Hotel Tuesday afternoon, between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock, at a large reception.

Tuesday, Feb. 27, the Amphion Club will give its first concert. The artists engaged for this evening are Mme. Shotwell Piper, soprano, and Leo Schulz, 'cellist. The following prominent St. Louisans are officers and members of the Board of Governors: Murray Carleton, president; Alfred G. Robyn, musical director; R. B. Haughton, first vice-president; A. D. Luehrman, second vice-president; M. A. Edwards, secretary; F. A. Brickenkamp, treasurer; Oscar T. Condon, assistant director; Executive Committee, James W. Jump, Dr. Oscar F. Baerens, W. A. Grolock; Board of Governors, W. K. Bixby, George W. Brown, D. R. Calhoun, Hanford Crawford, L. D. Dozier, C. H. Huttig, Charles W. Knapp, A. B. Lambert, N. W. McLeod, Elias Michael, William F. Nolker, Saunders Norvell, Byron Nugent, C. H. Spencer, J. C. Van Blarcom, C. P. Walbridge, Rolla Wells, George M. Wright; W. A. Grolock, corresponding secretary.

A luncheon was given Tuesday by Mrs. Wm. M. Sloan of 5130 Washington boulevard in honor of Miss Julia O'Neille of Huntsville, Ala. Austrian cut-glass vases from the World's Fair were given as souvenirs to each guest. The guests were Miss Julia O'Neille, Mmes. Thomas Carter, Oscar Johnson, Paul Brown, Wm. McGill, Jackson Johnson, E. F. Williams.

A surprise party was tendered to Miss Anna Schuermann in honor of her twenty-second birthday at the home of her parents, 3520 North Jefferson avenue, Feb. 18. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Schuermann; Misses Lizzie Schwalbe, Frances Bimschlager, Carrie Toeniskoetter, Cathryn Cremer, Mayme Cremer, Mayme Springmeyer, Anna Miller, Mamie Bothe, Lillie Bothe, Anna Bothe, Anna Schuermann, Mayme Schuermann, Lizzie Schuermann; Messrs. Charles Schuermann, Julius Schwalbe, Henry Juergens Jr., Julius Jacobsmeyer, M. Grewe, Louis Toeniskoetter, Joseph Bothe, Leo Schuermann, Joseph Toeniskoetter, John Frankenbach, Harry Richert, Harry Forcing.

Miss Genevieve Fusz of 1408 East Grand avenue has announced her engagement to Mr. William Moore of Kansas City. The wedding will be one of the early spring affairs. The ceremony will be performed by the bride's brother, Father Louis Fusz, at the Holy Name Church on North Grand avenue. Miss Fusz will be attended by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Malley of New York, for whom she acted as maid of honor just a year ago. The bride will wear a robe of white brocade satin and the conventional wedding veil.

Mrs. Simon Schwertz entertained Thursday the sewing club. She was assisted by her niece, Miss Jeanette Freund, at their residence, 2921 St. Vincent avenue. The next will be held at Mrs. Muenchweiler's.

A dramatic recital for the benefit of Trinity Episcopal Church was given at Odeon recital hall Tuesday evening under the direction of Miss Grace Sheets, assisted by Miss Alma Bagley, Miss Ruth Mitchell, August Schmitt, Richard Woltjen and P. G. Anton. Dramatic numbers were given by Miss Evelyn Henderson, Miss Ruth Mulvihill, Miss Gertrude Kirksey and Miss Fannie Hurst. The entertainment was followed by dancing.

Miss Aline Herr of Cabanne has for her guest this week Miss Stanford Danforth of Louisville, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. John Parkman Woods and family, who have been spending the past month in Hot Springs, left for New Orleans and will be joined this week by Mrs. John C. Kupferle and Mrs. George W. Pittinger. They will remain for Mardi Gras, then go to the resorts on the coast. Messrs. Kupferle and Pittinger will join them later.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan J. Coffey departed today for a visit to Mobile, the gulf ports and New Orleans, to spend the Mardi Gras season.

Mrs. Matt Courtney Jr. and young son departed the 19th for the South to spend a month. They were accompanied by Miss Margaret Farrell of West Morgan street.

FIREMAN HURT IN LEAP.

As the result of a 25-foot fall from the roof of the burning Negro Masonic Hall, 18 South Tenth street, to the roof of the W. Miller safe moving stables, Lieut. Joseph Ogulin of Truck Company No. 4, is at his home, 2867 South Seventh street, suffering from a sprained wrist and ankle.

He attempted to jump from the roof of the burning building to the roof of the stable, but instead of landing on the roof, fell in a light shaft.

The building, which was wrecked, was a three-story structure, and was the first Turner hall built in St. Louis.

The building was purchased by the negro Masons some years ago. The first floor is occupied by the Crucible Steel Co. The second and third floors were occupied by the Masons.

The office fixtures of the steel company were badly damaged by water. The loss on the building and its contents is covered by insurance.

RIGO PREFERS VIOLIN TO WIFE

His Fiddle Can't Run Away, Says Princess Chimay's Gypsy.

TO PLAY IN VAUDEVILLE

New York Shall Hear Some Real Music at Last, He Declares.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Rigo is here, Clara Ward's Rigo—she who was the Princess Chimay and left all to cling to her Rigo Jancszi. The gentleman wears his name backward, because he is a Hungarian gypsy, and it is the fashion of the country to put the surname first.

Rigo is staying at the Hotel Gotham on Fifth avenue, whither his manager led him as soon as he came ashore from the steamship Amerika of the Hamburg-American line. He is a short, brisk, muscular, middle-aged man, with broad shoulders, powerful arms and hands, a thick, round body and slim legs.

His coal black hair grows far back from a forehead that baldness has rendered very high, and his upturned eyebrows and fierce, upstanding mustache, framing a big, thick Roman nose and a broad, out-jutting chin, make him look like the typical Tsigane violinist one sees in Hungarian restaurants. His eyes are big black, protrusive and brilliant—the sort that very young misses rave about and wise matrons describe as the boiled onion type.

Rigo wanted to tell all about the four weeks' engagement he begins next Monday at the Colonial Theater, but his visitor's mind was set on something else.

"How long," he was asked, "since you saw the Princess Chimay?"

"A Grand Woman."

"Two years," replied Rigo, a cloud darkening his swarthy face. "She is a grand woman. For nine years—ah," his arms, shoulders and head joined in a beatific gesture.

"Is it true that when she ran away from you with a baggage master, you begged for a reconciliation?"

"Ah—that is a private matter," said Rigo. "I have forgot." His face was ineffably sad. His arms flew shoulder high and his hands thrust themselves away in a gesture of abnegation.

"Did you embrace her ankles and kiss her feet and beg her to take you back?"

"I have never heard of that before," he replied.

"But did it happen?"

"No, never," cried Rigo. "They print such lies about me. I tell you something—I have my leetle wife with me, my leetle violin, a Guarnarius for 25,000 francs. I shall steeck to her. She will not run."

Kubelik's name was mentioned.

"Kubelik! Kubelik!" mused Rigo. "He is a fine musician—of that school. He play a concerto by Sarasate, by Paganini, much technique, a master of technique of the school. But when I play, I play from the heart (bunching both hands over the heart).

"My engagement is for a four weeks; yes, but when the American people hear me play, zen we shall see. I have a Tsigane orchestra of 12 pieces. Ah, the people of New York shall hear some music."

WHOSE MACHINE IS IT?

Students' Question Causes Interest Among Statesmen.

Students of Weaubleau College at Weaubleau, Hickory County, have recently referred to the Secretary of State's office at Jefferson City the following question:

"Suppose you have patented a machine. May I make one like it for my own use?"

The question provoked doubt as to the kind of machine in question, and general inquiry was made about the Capitol. At the executive offices the existence of a machine was promptly denied. There was similar denial by Secretary of State Swanger, who is believed to have gubernatorial aspirations. If Attorney-General Hadley has a machine, it is so well oiled that it runs without noise, and was not discovered.

SAYS MUTUAL LIFE TRUSTEES GET REBATES

McCurdy's Spokesman Avers They Received Rake-Off on Own Policies.

NAMES TWO OFFICIALS

Raymond & Co. Had Big Income at Policyholders' Expense.

McCURDYS WILL FIGHT

Former President, His Son and Son-in-Law Threaten Expose.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The McCurdys, father, son and son-in-law, have decided to fight their former associates among the officers and hustlers of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. The whole truth about the management of the Mutual may now come out.

The McCurdys have grown weary of being the "goats" in the Mutual Life scandal. They have so far had to bear the blame of everything that has come to the surface, and up to today they kept silent, though all along they have seen others who shared in the profits of every financial scheme posing as earnest and diligent reformers of the evils within the company. That Richard A. McCurdy, as president of the Mutual, provided means for the enrichment of his son and son-in-law on a vast scale is not disputed by his defenders.

It is admitted that C. H. Raymond & Co. made stupendous sums by getting a collection fee on a large proportion of the premiums paid into the company. This was in addition to the firm's excessive commissions on every dollar of insurance written by the company in New York and Long Island.

The collection fee was 2 per cent. This commission was paid on millions upon millions of premiums, which, in the ordinary course of things, would have come into the company's treasury in any event. For the last three years the total premium income of the company has averaged between $60,000,000 and $65,000,000 a year. In 1903 the total was $60,151,020; in 1904, $62,932,097, and in 1905 slightly more.

Big Collection Rake-Off.

Raymond & Co. did not get its 2 per cent collection fee on the total of the premiums, but it was given the sinecure of handling the collections in many important districts in the United States. A group of officers, made up of some of the members of the Finance Committee, took upon themselves the authority to direct Raymond & Co. to make collections in this section or that section of the country.

No regular rule in giving the orders was followed, except that of giving the firm every possible chance to make immense sums at the expense of the policy holders.

The contention made by a large number of the Mutual trustees, since the Armstrong committee's investigation, that they were in complete ignorance of the arrangements which existed between Raymond & Co. and the Mutual Life is pronounced as absolutely false.

A man speaking for the McCurdy family declared emphatically that they not only knew of the arrangements, but used the knowledge to personally profit by them. He asserted without equivocation, declaring that it would be proved at the proper time that a number of the trustees received rebates on the premiums paid to the companies on policies on their own lives, and that they got these rebates through Charles H. Raymond & Co.

When asked to name any of the trustees who got rebates in this way, he named Frederic Cromwell, treasurer of the Mutual Life and former acting president. He also named Julien T. Davies, general solicitor and a member of the Board of Trustees.

Peabody Inaccessible.

President Chas. A. Peabody refused to be seen about this matter. One of the men named by the friend of the McCurdys, when asked about the charge that he had received rebates on his policy through Raymond & Co., said, after a painful pause:

"I do not remember."

This man begged that his name should not be used in connection with this statement.

John S. Wise, counsel for son-in-law Thebaud and the latter's partner, C. H. Raymond, was very indignant over the suits brought against the members of Raymond & Co. by the Mutual Life and the promptness with which the facts were communicated to the newspapers by the management. He practically accused the present powers in the company of bad faith and made the extraordinary declaration that unless the company pressed its suit against his clients they would bring suit against the Mutual Life to recover moneys due them and to set themselves right with the public.

The statement by Mr. Wise disclosed the fact that the Mutual Life has held up commissions due Thebaud and Raymond on their former contract. The company has also held up, it is said, renewal commissions amounting to about $100,000 a year, claimed by Robt. H. McCurdy.

SHE HAS HAD HER GARDEN 80 YEARS

Mrs. Barbe Francois Tells How and When to Plant Flowers.

MARCH IS THE MONTH

Potatoes Should Be Planted on St. Patrick's Day, She Says.

BY ROSE MARION.

Mrs. Barbe Francois, aged 88, whose garden has a reputation throughout the American Bottom, is spending these springlike days at her window in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Payeur of French Village, Ill., watching the sun dry the damp ground and hoping that the weather will soon be so that she can dig the earth again and plant her seeds.

Mrs. Francois has made gardens for more than 80 years, first in Europe and later in America and she knows just exactly when and how seeds should be planted.

I want to make a garden this year myself, and like all others to whom gardening is a fancy and not a work I want to begin right away. The sunshine has made me think that this is the time to turn up soil and plant. Having long heard of Mrs. Francois' sucessful gardening I went to her for advice.

The venerable woman whose blue eyes see without the aid of glasses as well as she did when she was a child, said:

Wait Until March.

"You must wait for the month of March; February is too soon to dig and plant. You must wait, too, for the ground to dry. When the sun has done his work then you may dig your earth well and rake it until there are no big lumps and it is so fine that you could sift it."

She spoke in French and she said "terre," which means ground or earth, as if she knew it as dressmakers know cloth and loved as we do the things we make. She rubbed her fingers together as if she were feeling the soft ground.

"But the ground in my garden is not good soil," said I, "I tried once before and things didn't grow well."

"You must use a little fertilizer. Be careful not to use too much or your plants will be heated so that they will burn.

"I plant nothing in March except lettuce and onions. I make beds for these, higher than most other people do, because that is my way.

"I rule the beds off in rows. If you have nothing with which to do that take a plank. Put the plank down at the edge of the bed and then turn it over. Along its edge draw a row with your rake. In that row plant your onions each a certain distance apart. You may use the same way with your lettuce. Some plant their lettuce broadcast. That makes it too hard to keep the garden clean. I like my garden without weeds and when my plants are in rows I can keep the weeds out. No one cares for my garden except myself and I know that all is done as I want it to be.

Potatoes on St. Patrick's Day.

"I work my onions and my lettuce every few days, that is, I stir up the ground about them.

"If you plant any potatoes, plant them on St. Patrick's Day, March 17, if the weather will let you. You know how to cut them so that each piece you plant has at least one eye.

"I wouldn't plant much else in March if I were you. Plant beets in April, but wait until May for your cabbage seed. You won't lose much by waiting until the sun is really hot for most of your seeds.

"The same is true of flower seeds. My flowers do not grow as pretty here as those did that I planted in France. Neither is their scent as fine.

"I like roses better than all other flowers. For them you have to use care in trimming that I would have to show you by real work. Flowers that grow from seed must be planted and cared for as you do other plants. Give them water when rains are far apart and keep the weeds out."

Mrs. Francois has lived in America for 59 years and in French Village for 16 years. She has done pioneer work and still cuts all the kindling used by her family. When she was younger she made fence rails and plowed. She dug 60 bushels of potatoes a day when she was 70 years of age.

No one touches her garden except herself. She lived for some time on a Missouri farm and came to French Village from a farm near Centralia, Ill. She is the head of five generations, having a great-great-grandchild. She has six children living and in her language she says proudly "six ouvriers," meaning that each is a worker.

She has never lived in a city and has no love for city life. She says it is "too close," that the real life is that with the plants and the ground, and the farmer is the one independent man.

RUSH SOLDIERS TOWARD CHINA

Twelve Companies to Sail on Transport Logan for Philippines, March 5.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Twelve companies of infantry will sail from San Francisco for the Philippines on the transport Logan on March 5. Four are from this point, two from Fort Slocum, two from Columbus, O., and four from Fort Niagara.

While no reasons for the embarkation of so large a body of troops is made public, it is known that the mobilization of troops in the Philippines has an eye direct on the growing anti-foreign sentiment in China and on the apprehension that this may result in overt hostile acts of sufficient gravity to warrant military suppression by foreign powers. The mobilization of the troops will enable the United States to participate, if not to lead, in the suppression.

The four New York companies are of the Eighth United States Infantry. They left Governor's Island yesterday afternoon for San Francisco, via New Orleans.

The trip across the continent will be made by rail.

Ursuline Academy Concerts.

Students of Ursuline Academy, Twelfth street and Russell avenue, will celebrate Washington's birthday by giving two musical and dramatic entertainments, one at 9 a. m. and the other at 7:30 p. m. The funds will be for the benefit of Holy Childhood Association.

Held for Saloon Robbery.

James Crunk and Charles Heisenstein, former policemen of Granite City, will be tried on the charge of robbing seven men of $113.05 in the Pike saloon, having been held for the grand jury at their preliminary hearing before Police Magistrate Kinder. They were unable to give the required bonds of $1000 each, and were committed to Jail.

YOUNG BARD WAS SLAIN IN EUROPE

New York Detective Reports Death of Former California Senator's Nephew.

MISSING TWO MONTHS

Drew $1000 From Bank in Brussels, but Failed to Sail.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—That Alfred M. Bard, nephew of former Senator Bard of California, met his death in Europe by foul play was the statement made by Detective-Sergeant John J. Fogarty, who returned to New York today on the steamer Zeeland, from Brussels, Belgium. Forgarty went to Europe six weeks ago to look for the man, who had been missing for nearly two months. He brought back part of Bard's effects, including two valuable violins, one said to be worth $1000.

Young Bard went to Brussels in August last to study the violin. He intended to return to New York on a steamer leaving Antwerp on Oct. 20, last. His uncle, Senator Bard, was at the pier to meet him when the ship arrived, but he did not appear among the passengers.

Senator Bard then applied to the New York police, who cabled to the Brussels authorities and the search for the young man has been steadily pressed. When the officials failed to find the young man, Senator Bard asked that Fogarty be permitted to go abroad to prosecute the search, and he was granted six weeks' leave of absence without pay. This leave later was extended to March 1. In his capacity as a private detective Fogarty was not obliged to report today to the local headquarters the result of his investigation, and none of the details of the search, therefore, were given out.

At this point Fogarty declined to make an extended statement.

He said, however, that when he reached Brussels he learned that young Bard had made all arrangements to leave the Belgian city in October, according to his original plans. He withdrew $1000 which he had on deposit in a bank there, but at the last moment decided to postpone his departure for one week.

A French girl, with whom the young man had become acquainted with in Brussels, was responsible for the postponement, the detective said.

At this point Fofarty declined to talk further about the case except to say that young Bard was dead and probably murdered.

TO SEE FOLK AGAIN.

A subcommittee appointed by the joint committee of the Municipal Assembly on home rule will go to Jefferson City at the end of the week to make another effort to persuade the Governor to come to St. Louis to confer with the Home Rule Committee instead of the committee being compelled to go to the State Capitol to confer with him.

At a meeting Tuesday afternoon of the committee, Councilmen Rolfes and Marks and Delegate Gazzolo were appointed as members of the special committee.

After the meeting there was some dissatisfaction expressed by several members of the committee. They said that they didn't see the necessity for all the discussion about where the conference should be held. The main point was that it should be held. They said further that it was only proper that the committee should go to Jefferson City, because of the official standing of the Governor.

HADLEY AIDS NEW JERSEY

Sends Standard Oil Information to Legislators.

Attorney-General Hadley Wednesday forwarded to an Investigating Committee of the New Jersey Legislature a statement of facts contained in evidence in his case against the Standard Oil Co. for presentation to the Legislature, which has before it a resolution asking the Attorney-General to oust the holding company of Standard interests, which has a New Jersey charter.

The letter from the Legislative Committee requested Attorney-General Hadley to appear in person before the committee, but this he will be unable to do until he is again called to New York, the exact time of which is not known.

RICH MAN'S SON WEDS A WAITRESS

Walter T. Bowman of East St. Louis and Mabel Reese Bested Relatives.

LICENSE ONCE TORN UP

Elder Bowman Decides After Heated Telephone Talks Resistance Is Useless.

Walter T. Bowman, son of Frank T. Bowman, one of the wealthiest men in East St. Louis, and Miss Mabel Reese, a pretty waitress, were married Tuesday morning despite strenuous objections on the part of the elder Bowman and John J. McLean, an uncle of the groom. McLean even tore up the marriage license, which had been obtained after much trouble, in an attempt to prevent the wedding.

Walter Bowman and his bride called at the residence of Marriage License Clerk Caughlin about 8 p. m., Tuesday, and asked for a license. Caughlin did not believe that the father of young Bowman knew of his contemplated step so he called the father up by telephone and explained the situation.

"I will not issue the license unless you say it is all right, said Caughlin.

Bowman said that he knew nothing of his son's intention to marry, that he had not been consulted and that he did not want the license issued. So Caughlin told the young man and the girl that he would not issue the license. In vain the couple pleaded with him. The young man said he was 22 and the girl said she was 19. Caughlin did not dispute the ages, but he would not issue the license. Then young Bowman called his father up on the telephone and they had a heated argument.

Fiancee in Angry Talk.

The son begged and finally called Miss Reese to the telephone. She had a brief talk over the wire with her prospective father-in-law which she ended by declaring:

"I don't have to marry your son. I have a home in which I am welcome."

And she hung up the receiver.

After further argument with Caughlin, young Bowman again called up his father and had a further talk. Then he called Caughlin to the telephone and the father told the license clerk to issue the license. This was done and the happy couple went away.

Bowman took his bride to her boarding house at 216 Missouri avenue, where he left her while he went out to get a minister or Justice to perform the ceremony.

He met his uncle, John J. McLean, formerly Special Tax Collector for East St. Louis, on Main street. The uncle had heard of the contemplated marriage and stopped to talk to his nephew. An official envelope was protruding from the young man's pocket. The uncle seized it, saw what it was and tore the license into bits and threw the scraps into the gutter.

Bowman called Caughlin up on the telephone and reported the matter. Caughlin said he had no more blanks at his home, but promised to issue a duplicate license Wednesday morning. The tearing up of the license prevented a marriage Tuesday night.

Wednesday morning Bowman and Miss Reese were at the license clerk's office early and a duplicate license was issued. Justice McKane performed the ceremony.

After the ceremony the groom called his mother up by telephone and told her of his marriage. He explained that he was amply able to take care of a wife and asked for her forgiveness. After some talk he agreed to have a second ceremony performed and he then made arrangements to be married again by Rev. J. F. Hanson of First M. E. Church, East St. Louis. The second ceremony was set for Wednesday night.

Father Says Protest Vain.

Frank B. Bowman said Wednesday morning that he had given his consent to the marriage because when a young man decides to marry there is little use in trying to prevent him. The young folks had determined, if there was any difficulty in getting the license in East St. Louis Wednesday morning, to go to Belleville or Edwardsville.

The groom is a fireman attached to Engine Company No. 3 and is popular with his associates. His bride is a tall, graceful blonde. Her family lives in Collinsville, but she has been employed as a waitress in the restaurant at 111 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, for some months. She is highly regarded by all who know her.

The groom's father was formerly in the real estate business but has retired. The Bowman home is one of the handsomest on the East Side.

Local Money.

Messrs. George H. Burr & Co., commercial paper brokers, 31 Third National Bank Building, report local money:

Indorsed bills receivable 4 to 6 months, 4½ to 5 per cent; high-grade single name paper, 4 to 6 months, 4¾ to 5 per cent; other names, not so well known, 5 to 5½ per cent; call money on good security, 4½ to 5 per cent. Money market is very stiff. Banks report demand very good.

TENDENCY OF STOCK MARKET IS DOWNWARD

Selling in Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Northwestern Causes Selling in the General List, and the Close Is Irregular and Lower.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Stock prices opened slightly lower on Wall street today, with the trading only moderately active. Market sentiment continues mixed and the professional traders are bearish.

The range of prices on Americans abroad was irregular and the buying by the arbitrage houses is very light. The Moroccan situation is again causing some uneasiness in financial circles. Money market conditions abroad are improving.

The Early Markets.

Consols are lower for money and account in the later market, and attention is drawn to the Algeciras conference and more particularly to the disagreement of France and Germany over the terms proposed by France. As a matter of fact some of the newspapers have managed to create the impression that war is likely. This is all rubbish. There is no more chance of a war between France and Germany than between the United States and England. The questions at issue will now come directly before the conference and it is understood on excellent authority that the United States will present the plan which is likly to be adopted. One of our international bankers states that both the German and French chancelleries bel'eve that there will be no serious trouble. The flurry in call money yesterday was due, as explained, to the shifting of accounts incidental to the $20,000,000 payment on New York City bonds, but the money market, nevertheless, is receiving considerable attention. Some of the leading banks were calling loans today, and the pressure was reflected in American Smelting, Northern Pacific and Great Northern. The Northwestern railroad situation has been the keynote to the bull market for some time past, and the selling in the Northwesterns was not relished on this account. Early loans found call funds in scant supply at 5 per cent.

WILL CONTEST RENEWED.

Bauchens Verdict Set Aside, New Trial Ordered.

The verdict breaking the will of the late Adam Bauchens of East St. Louis was set aside and a new trial granted by Judge Moyers in City Court. The suit was brought by Louis Bauchens, representing the heirs of Adam Bauchens, against Lillie B. Davis, to whom he willed a house and lot valued at $5000.

Adam Bauchens, who owned considerable property in East St. Louis, died March 23, 1905, and by his will, executed Dec. 19, 1904, left a part of his property to his children, and left a house and lot on North Eighth street to Mrs. Lillie B. Davis, with whom he boarded at the time of his death, having been divorced from his wife. A deed to this property was also made by Bauchens to Mrs. Davis and placed in the hands of F. J. Steger, a real estate man, to be delivered to Mrs. Davis at his death, provided Mrs. Davis took care of him until he died. On the day after his death Mrs. Davis secured the deed from Steger and had it recorded in the Recorder's office at Belleville. A suit is now pending to set aside this deed.

This suit was brought by Bauchens' heirs to set aside the will on the grounds that Bauchens was feeble and not in his right mind when he made the will, and that Mrs. Davis had exercised undue influence over him. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of the heirs, setting the will aside, but Judge Moyers' order sets this verdict aside and makes a new trial necessary. The case will be redocketed for the March term.

"Paddy" Brennan Left $352.

An inventory of the estate of Patrick Brennan, known in ward politics as "Paddy" Brennan, and made famous by the speeches attributed to him, in which he declared that he, when in the House of Delegates, gave poor men "work to do on the streets when there was no work," was filed Wednesday in Probate Court. The estate amounted to $352.86. The items were: Accounts, $141; cash, $133.31; goods and chattels, $78.55. He lived at 1350 Glasgow avenue.

Boy Calls, Jewels Gone.

A boy, who called at the Rider Jewelry store, 705 Washington avenue, for Mr. Hahn, the president, is thought to have taken two solid gold Masonic emblem circlets, valued at $40. The circlets have been missing since his visit.

WARRANT FOR HASHAGEN

Federal Charge Against Dance Hall Manager.

Fred W. Hashagen, owner of the Hashagen Auditorium, 2300 South Broadway, is charged in a warrant issued by United States Commissioner Morsey with concealing property with intent to defraud his creditors. Hashagen is at present involved in bankruptcy proceedings.

One of Hashagen's former employes gave the information which resulted in the warrant. Under a pile of stage remnants was found a large quantity of tools and a belt with which a merry-go-round is attached to an engine.

It is also charged that two moving picture machines were sold to George Neff for a trivial consideration. The machines are valued at $2000. Another former employe of the dance hall is said to have received glassware and other merchandise to keep until the proceedings were over.

The warrant is the first to be issued on this charge for several years. The punishment is two years in the Penitentiary.

In his petition asking to be declared a bankrupt, Hashagen declared his assets to be $5875 and his liabilities $26,502.17. Three appraisers appointed by the court have been reported as saying that his assets were $40,000.

WHEAT STEADY IN TODAY'S MARKET

Cables and French Crop Acreage Gives Bulls the Advantage.

OTHER GRAINS FIRM

Short Covering Helps Corn—Oats Steady on Domestic Demand.

The wheat market was steady today and prices moved in a very narrow range. Shorts were the best buyers, but a slightly improved demand was also noted from the commission houses.

News generally was unimportant and not such as to exert much either way, and temporarily the trade believes the decline has gone far enough.

Foreign markets reported an improved demand and Liverpool prices closed ¼d up on wheat and ¼d higher on corn. Berlin wheat closed unchanged, Budapest ½c higher, Antwerp unchanged and Paris ¼c to ½c up.

Receipts in the Northwest were liberal, and Minneapolis and Duluth reported 494 cars, against 281 last week, and 236 last year. Winnipeg received 131 cars, against 67 last year, and Minneapolis stocks increased 100,000 bu for the four days of the current week.

Broomhall cabled a correction in the French crop acreage, reducing it by 500,000 acres, and this was largely responsible for the late rally.

The acreage is placed at 15,519,000, instead of 15,081,000 acres, as reported yesterday. Last year's acreage was 15,659,000, and two years ago 15,914,000. Navigation is reported open in the lower part of the Azaff.

The cash demand shows a slight improvement, but as yet millers are light buyers.

Corn showed a steadier tendency on the foreign cables, short covering and less liberal offerings.

Oats were firm on improved domestic demands.

TWO NEW BILLS FOR FREE BRIDGE

President Forman Introduces Measure Proposing Bond Issue of $12,000,000.

ONE FOR BRIDGE ALONE

Joint Committee Would Eliminate Other Points From Their Bill.

Close on the heels of the summary killing by the City Council of the free bridge bond issue bill two new free bridge bond issue bills are now pending in both branches of the Municipal Assembly.

President Forman introduced a bill Tuesday afternoon which appropriates $12,000,000 for eight specified public improvements, one being $4,500,000 for a municipal free bridge, to be voted upon July 24. Councilman Cramer, on behalf of the Joint Free Bridge and Bond Issue Committee, introduced a bill which appropriates $3,500,000 for a free bridge only, to be voted on July 9.

Mr. Kollas introduced in the House a bill similar to President Forman's, and Mr. Coale introduced the Joint Committee's bill in the lower branch of the Municipal Assembly.

President Forman's $12,000,000 municipay free bridge bond issue bill provides for two things which were responsible for much of the controversy in both branches of the Assembly over the ill-fated free bridge bond issue bill. The most important is that which refers to the free bridge clause.

City Counselor Bates said that according to the free bridge clause in the old bill the city would be powerless to collect toll from anybody or even a maintenance fee. President Forman's bill says that the bridge shall be free in the sense that no railroads, street cars, or other mode of transportation using the bridge shall collect any charge above the mileage basis.

Increase in Cost.

The other point refers to the cost of the bridge. When the free bridge bond issue bill was before the Ways and Means Committee of the House this question was brought up. Several opponents of the bill said they didn't believe the bridge could be built for $3,500,000. The question was never cleared up entirely. President Forman bases his estimate of $4,500,000 upon careful study of data of other bridges in different parts of the country, he says.

The bill of the Joint Committee was the result of a compromise between the warring factions of the committee. It is also aimed against the expressed intention of Mayor Wells to introduce a bill providing $4,000,000 for different public improvements and ignoring the free bridge entirely. The Mayor suggested such a measure to provide for what he considered the more pressing needs of the city.

TEXTS OF TWO NEW BOND ISSUE BILLS IN MUNICIPAL ASSEMBLY

THE FORMAN BILL

1. For a municipal bridge, $4,500,000.
2. For parks, but not to restore Forest Park, $470,000.
3. Construction of hospitals for convalescent cases and for Female Hospital, $800,000.
4. Additions to Insane Asylum, $1,000,000.
5. Improvement of King's Highway, $1,500,000.
6. Extension of the Fire Department, $230,000.
7. Construction of buildings to accommodate Jail, Criminal and other courts, police headquarters, Health Department, $2,000,000.
8. Extension of public sewers, $1,500,000.

Total, $12,000,000.

THE JOINT COMMITTEE BILL.

1. For municipal free bridge, $3,500,000.

MR. BARRET TALKS OF THE NEW BILL.

Arthur B. Barret, chairman of the Joint Committee on the Free Bridge, and Charles F. Ziebold, the author of the original Ziebold bill, say that the bill providing for a vote July 9 on the proposition to issue $3,500,000 bonds for a free bridge is not antagonistic to any measure that will achieve the same result or that will be of value to the city.

"In arranging for a bill that deals strictly with the bridge question," said Mr. Barret, "we are trying to avoid controversies. We are heartily in favor of any other propositions that will be of benefit to St. Louis, and the Municipal Assembly may add bond propositions to the bill, and we will support them.

"But our object is to get the free bridge, and it is on that measure that we will expend our greatest energy."

DEADLY "Y" CAN BE ABOLISHED

House Gets Opinion From City Counselor as to Procedure.

The opinion of City Counselor Bates on the Newstead and Lee avenues "Y," which was asked by the House a short time ago, was read to the delegates Tuesday night.

Mr. Bates says that the House in asking him what legislation it would be proper for the city to enact, has asked a question too broad to admit of a specific answer. He points, however, to the fact that if the Assembly should come to the conclusion that the "Y" is dangerous, the city has the power of passing ordinances calculated to eliminate the evil.

The House passed the following Council bills:

Appropriating $1000 for rebuilding the dog pound at the foot of Gasconade street; improving Nebraska avenue from Cherokee to Utah streets; authorizing the Polar Wave Ice and Fuel Co. to erect a private scale on the south side of Manchester avenue at Benton; for the reconstruction of Twenty-fifth street from Palm street to Glasgow avenue; improving Oregon avenue from Wyoming to Arsenal street; increasing the pay of engineers in the Fire Department from $100 to $110 per month.

The following House bills were passed: Improvement of Fairfax avenue from Sarah to Whittier streets; authorizing the Missouri Pacific Railway Co. to construct a switch across Chouteau avenue at the plant of the Great Western Feed Co.; appropriating $25,000 for the construction of the Harlem Creek sewer; appropriating $126,000 for the reconstruction and enlargement of the Rocky Branch sewer from the Mississippi River to Elliot avenue; authorizing the St. Louis, Carondelet & Oak Hill Railroad to construct two tracks across Accomac street to the yards of the Julius Seidel Lumber Co. In all, 56 bills were passed in the House.

Suit Over Patrick Briefs.

A suit for $756.51 against John T. Milliken of St. Louis, brother-in-law of Alfred T. Patrick, for the printing of briefs in the case of Patrick, now under sentence of death in Sing Sing Penitentiary for the murder of William Marsh Rice, is under consideration by Judge McDonald. Milliken testified at the hearing of the suit that he agreed to pay B. H. Tyrrell of New York, the plaintiff, only $273.

Verdict Doubled on Appeal.

The appeal which was taken by the Granite Bituminous Paving Co. in the case of William J. Phelan resulted in a verdict twice the size of the first. A horse driven by Phelan became frightened by a steam roller of the company on Oct. 5, 1904. Phelan was thrown from the vehicle and received an injury to his eye. Since the first trial, the other eye has become infected. In the first trial Phelan was given a verdict for $3700, and in the second, one for $7500.

BARDENHEIER ELECTION.

Wine and Liquor Company Opens New Year in Fine Shape.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the John Bardenheier Wine and Liquor Co., 210 to 214 Market street, was held Monday, and the following officers were elected: Charles W. Bardenheier, president; John H. Bardenheier, vice-president, and Joseph A. Bardenheier, secretary.

The conditions of the business are excellent, and the officers reported that large increases were made in 1905. A very successful year is expected for 1906.

John Bardenheier was the founder of the company. He was born in 1844, at Oberlahnstein, Germany, and after finishing his education he went to Geisenheim, celebrated for its vineyards, where he stayed three years, learning culture, treatment and handling of wine.

Desiring broader fields for his activity he came to St. Louis in 1866 and became connected with the firm of Charles Wezler, who was the most prominent wholesale liquor dealer in the city. He was with this company for eight years, and gained an intimate knowledge of the details of the business. In 1873 he established the business which now bears his name, on Market street.

He conducted the business personally for 20 years and won the esteem and confidence of his customers by correct principles and fair dealing. His business gained from year to year, and the home of the company had to be enlarged and rebuilt several times.

One store and cellar at 220 Market street was sufficient room at the beginning, but after a few years the store adjoining was added. The continued growth made it necessary to provide still larger quarters, and this led to the purchase of three houses, 210-12-14 Market street, the present site of the business, where a new building was erected in 1894, especially adapted for a business of this character. Under these buildings are three large wine cellars, filled with wines of the finest vintages from all parts of the world.

Sons Become Partners.

The present name, John Bardenheier Wine and Liquor Co., was adopted and incorporated under the laws of the State of Missouri in 1895, when Mr. Bardenheier took into partnership his sons, Charles, John and Joseph.

Mr. Bardenheier remained at the head of the business until 1905, when he retired on account of ill health. He went abroad, but upon reaching Europe he grew gradually worse and died at Neuenahr, Germany. The remains were brought to St. Louis for burial.

Charles Bardenheier assumed the head of the business at the death of his father. For over twenty years he was his father's associate and is thoroughly familiar with every detail. In accordance with the wish of his father, he went abroad in 1888 and became connected with the firm of C. F. Eccardt, Kreuznach, Germany, who is one of the most prominent wine dealers in that country.

He remained there two years, acquiring a thorough knowledge of the wine business.

John H. Bardenheier had been with his father 15 years. He acted as the company's traveling representative, and now stands at the head of the salesmen and travelers in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri. He has gained hundreds of customers for the house, his territory becoming more and more extended and his sales have been on a steady increase.

In 1896 he went to California to learn the details of the making of wines and brandies, becoming connected with the Italian-Swiss agricultural colony, among the most famous wine growers in that State. He returned after two years with the highest testimonials as to his thorough knowledge of the wine and brandy business.

Joseph A. Bardenheier, like all of his brothers, a college graduate, became connected with the business when quite young, starting at the bottom and working in every department. He is the head of the office force and is well adapted for the work.

He is ably assisted by his younger brother, Arthur, who has charge of the shipping and billing department; also George P. Deibel, who has held the position of bookkeeper and credit man for 12 years, during which time he has rendered steady and untiring service.

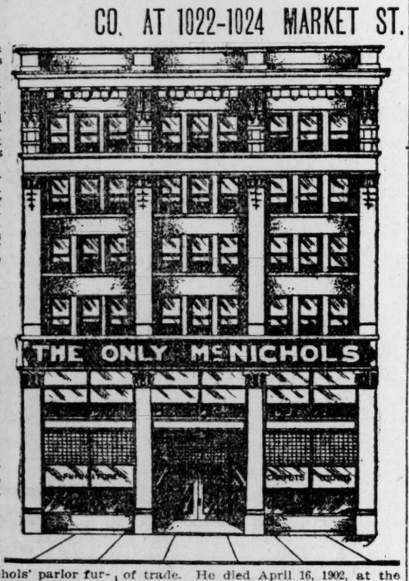

Henry Sierk has been traveling for the company 17 years and has a large territory, embracing Missouri, Illinois, Kansas and Oklahoma. He is a stockholder in the company.

Henry Waelter has been with the company 16 years, starting at the bottom. He is now the leading city representative, which position he has occupied 12 years. He also is a stockholder.

The John Bardenheier Wine and Liquor Co. enjoys an enviable reputation wherever it is known, a reputation based upon the sterling qualities of its founder, Mr. John Bardenheier, who, by his activity, energy, integrity and long experience, built up one of the most prominent business houses of the West, which is the result of his untiring labor, strict adherence to honest business principles and fairness in all transactions.

All of the sons conformed to their father's wishes by starting at the bottom; and under his strict guidance they have acquired a thorough knowledge of the business by actual experience, which enables them to successfully guard and cultivate the valuable institution which their father by years of struggle and enterprise established.

CROWDS VISIT THE OPENING OF THE McNICHOLS FURNITURE CO. AT 1022-1024 MARKET ST.

The Only McNichols (which trade-mark is so widely known) opened the doors last Monday of the new store with a host of visiting friends and patrons eager to inspect one of the most up-to-date structures in the country.

The building is 66 by 136 feet, and has 100,000 square feet of space devoted to samples. It is of re-enforced concrete, with floors taking a test of 600 pounds to the square foot.

The first floor of the new building is 20 feet high, with mezzanine or balcony floor. Under the balcony it is divided into apartments, showing library, den, bachelor suites, bedroom, parlor, kitchen and dining room and porch settings. In the rear of the balcony are the general offices, where are stationed cashiers, stock clerks, stenographers, and others. In the rear of the balcony are the private offices and credit department.

On the second floor there is a fine display of carpets, rugs, draperies, shades and linoleums. The third floor contains the McNichols' parlor furniture in general. Complete bedroom suits and bedroom furniture in general are on view on the fourth floor. If the patron takes the electric direct semi-magnetic elevator to the fifth floor, he finds a complete array of brass and metal beds, and dining room furniture in general, while the sixth floor is devoted to folding beds, library and parlor tables, bookcases and den furniture. The basement is stocked with stoves, ranges, kitchen furniture and chinaware.

The McNichols Furniture Company started in 1865 with a small store at 8 and 10 North Tenth street. It moved to 1013 Market street in 1878, and two years later moved to its present location. In 1886 Nos. 1013-15 Market street were added, and last year 1022-24 Market street was torn down and the new McNichols Building erected. The McNichols has also a six-story warehouse, with 60,000 square feet of space, at 112 South Eleventh street.

From top to bottom the store is an indication of all that a modern establishment should be, and its constantly increasing business shows that the public fully appreciates this fact.

It was Henry McNichols, the founder of the concern, who first established the installment business. He has been always called the father of that sort of trade. He died April 16, 1902, at the age of 63 years. Henry J. McNichols, his son, was born September 18, 1878, was educated at St. Mary's, Kansas, and at St. Louis University, where he remained until June, 1896.

There is one other point, however, which has counted strongly in urging the goods of the place into favor. That is the fact that every attache of the McNichols establishment, from president down to the youngest clerk, has always acted on the basis that the interest of the customer is the interest of the firm—a theory which has proven most successful in the long history of the business, and which has aided in building up both the trade and the name of the noted St. Louis concern.

For attention to every detail which can lend to the completeness and modern nature of an up-to-date plant; for convenience of arrangement both for salesmen and customers; for improvements in all modern particulars and for elaborate care in its every portion, the new six-story building is unique in its way.

The history of the firm has always been one of a series of triumphs, and its directors state that they only wish to point to its record in the past as an indication of what they can do in the future.

URICSOL

A SOLVENT OF URIC ACID.

Most people understand nowadays that Rheumatism is caused from URIC ACID being present in the blood, which has not been passed off by the kidneys. This in turn poisons the whole system, formations begin in the various joints, followed by inflammation and intense Pain.

The usual treatment of Rheumatism prescribed by physicians is aimed to reduce the pain and give some temporary ease and comfort.

URICSOL positively cures along perfectly legitimate lines. It dissolves the excess of URIC ACID, eliminates the Urea, enables the kidneys to perform their functions naturally and thoroughly and soon puts the sufferer on the high road to health.

This is positive truth which is proved daily from all parts of the country by those who have enjoyed the benefits from it.
